
A Big Truck Tips In D.C.

GLASS CARGO—This truck-trailer rig was hauling a load of glassware when it overturned Monday at Skyline Boulevard and Cabrillo Highway in Daly City. Highway patrolmen said Andres Rivas Herrera, 37, of San Francisco, lost control of the rig while rounding a sharp curve at the interchange. Herrera suffered minor injuries to his left shoulder.

S.S.F. PETITIONERS WIN

Overpass Issue On Ballot

Efforts of petitioners in South San Francisco to put on the ballot the decision as to whether to spend an estimated $100,000 on an overpass at Camaritas and West Orange Avenues at this point in time have been successful.

A special election was set for September 15.

City Clerk Arthur Rodondi Monday night certified that the petition, which contained 2,435 signatures, had 2,110 names that "complied with the provisions of the elections code."

Said City Attorney John Noonan, "Apparently 10 per cent or more than 10 per cent of the voters necessary to suspend the effect of the order of the council of May 18, 1970 has been obtained."

Noonan went on to explain to the councilmen "the next move is for reconsideration; to look over the matter and determine whether to let it stand or rescind the decision."

He told the councilmen that they represented not only 10 per cent of the voters, but the voters of the entire city and "when you reconsider, you must reconsider all voters."

Councilman William Borba, who initiated the action that resulted in the approval of the overpass, said "My motion still stands and I will not rescind that motion."

"I second the motion," said Councilman Frank Bertucelli, to the non-motion statement.

Mayor Patrick Ahern said, "I don't see where further reflection will change my opinion."

Councilman Borba then made an official motion and the three voted not to rescind their earlier motion. This was followed by a series of three motions to call a special election on September 15 in conjunction with the San Mateo Junior College District election; to appoint election officers; and to establish an agreement with the county for election services.

The referendum effort began after Mayor Ahern and Councilmen Bertucelli and Borba voted over the protests of fellow councilmen Frank Mammini and Warren Steinkamp to approve the overpass at a council session at which the overpass was not an agenda item.

Mammini and Steinkamp were not even aware the matter was to be brought up, until Councilman Borba, who avoided mention of it at the 4:30 p.m. precouncil session, brought the matter up at the 8 p.m. May 18 meeting.

Petitioning resident contended the councilmen hired professional advice they refused to use, even failed to heed staff recommendations against the overpass, and mainly that if the city is to spend in the neighborhood of $100,000 the people should have an opportunity to voice their opinions.

Steinkamp was absent from Monday night's meeting and Mammini voted both for rescinding the motion and later to put the matter to a vote.

Daly City Action

Pacifica Allowed Dump Site Use For One Year

Garbage dominated much of Monday night's study session of the Daly City council.

In a special meeting of the council early in the evening a one year contract with the Coastside Scavenger Company of Pacifica was approved which would allow that city to export its solid waste to the Daly City Mussel Rock dumpsite.

The original agreement between the two cities had been classified by Daly City as an emergency move designed to provide a temporary solution while Pacifica, which had run out of dumping space, could look elsewhere for a longterm answer to its garbage problems.

But after three months of searching, the coastside city was unable to find a suitable site and the city agreed to extend the agreement for 12 months beginning July 7, 1970.

The Coastside Scavengers are expected to dump some 50 tons of solid waste per day at the Mussel Rock site and will pay the city $4 per ton, according to D.C. Scavenger Company president Al Serini.

Councilman Frank Pacelli, also a director of the Association of Bay Area Governments, commended both parties in the agreement and noted it was an example of how neighboring communities could work out their problems "in a spirit of mutual cooperation."

Later, during a study session of the council, a brief announce-

Scavenger's Estimate

$772,000 Needed To Meet Oyster Point Requirements

South San Francisco Scavenger Company president George Stagnaro Monday afternoon told the councilmen it would take $772,000 to meet the requirements of the Water Quality Control Board regarding correction of asserted pollution of the bay at the Oyster Point dump site.

Stagnaro said he just can't afford the corrective measures they want — a dike to encompass the entire southside of the dump site.

In essence asking for financial help from the city, Stagnaro received a response that suggested an estimated $5,000 be spent to monitor the site to determine if in fact recent patching of the dike hasn't controlled the problem and whether there is indeed a need for a complete new dike.

"My opinion is that we need the dike," said Stagnaro. "I can't see throwing away another $5,000."

Councilmen decided the matter needed some deep thought and called for a special 7:30 p.m. meeting Tuesday night to discuss the matter further.

According to City Manager Tom McKenzie, city staff, Stagnaro and soils engineer Dave Dunham had met all afternoon Monday to seek a solution to the accused pollution problem.

McKenzie submitted a letter, dated July 2, which he said was received Monday morning from the California Regional Water Quality Control Board.

In the letter the board noted their temporary suspension of court action against the city for 30 days and required the city and the scavenger company to report on plans for immediate and long-range corrective actions by next Monday in writing.

Plans for immediate corrective actions to prevent escape of floatables to bay waters, to prevent contact of waste material with bay waters and to prevent leaching to bay waters "will be substantially completed to their satisfaction," said McKenzie.

He said plans to carry out recommendations as to instrumentation and monitoring, regrading of the slopes on the north, and continuous observation of all work by a competent soils engineering firm also should meet the boards satisfaction.

However, two other matters, which prompted the Tuesday night meeting, have to do with plans and a firm time schedule for construction of a stabilizing berm and partical displacement dike, and plans for permanent control of leaching and erosion of the entire perimeter of he dump.

THE JEFFERSON (Elementary) Classroom Teachers Association is attempting to reach the Daly City-Colma community to explain what they consider to be problems in local education. As a result, they have purchased billboard space (located on Junipero Serra Boulevard, near 87th Street) with a phone number. The teachers hope coffee clatches, or other discussions, might result. The JCTA also has a taped message that outlines weekly progress on district-teacher negotiations. (Post Photo)

D.C. Pay Hike For Firemen

By FRANK LAPIERRE
Post-Times Writer

Daly City firemen have ratified a pay and fringe benefit package that will give them an across-the-board wage hike of 8.25 per cent and increased holiday pay.

The package also establishes a new "Fire Engineer-Operator" position within the department.

Two meetings of the Firefighters Union Local 1879, International Association of Firefighters were held over the past weekend to meet the deadline for ratification.

It was the biggest single pay raise within the city employee structure this year.

In an unusual move last week, the City Council had first approved the package after recommendations for acceptance of the overall package were made by city manager David Rowe.

Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett had warned that if the firemen failed to ratify the pact and decided, instead, to go back to the negotiating table talks would start from the ground up — not

S.S.F. Council Gets List Of Projects

Proposed capital improvements totaling more than $20 million were placed in the laps of South San Francisco councilmen Monday night by Citizens Committee on Capital Improvements representatives.

The committee members were seeking a study of the city's capability of bonding several projects.

Mayor Patrick Ahern, apparently not understanding (or ignoring) the quest, asked City Mgr. Tom McKenzie to locate three specialists in financing of police stations so the councilmen could "get this project started because it's the most important."

Mayor Ahern said that after the councilmen have had an opportunity to study the other submitted propoosals "we'll go from there. We're talking about a lot of money," he said.

Ed Rickenbacher of 126 Rosewood Way attempted to enlighten the mayor to the fact the committees didn't necessarily want to begin all projects, rather to have financial experts de-

D.C. Clerk Gets Raise

Daly City City Clerk Mrs. Anna Ohlendorf was given a $100 per month raise—bringing her monthly salary to $1000—during a special meeting of the council Monday.

The nominal raise takes effect on August 15 and amends ordinance section 2-2 of the city code. The second reading of the ordinance is expected to be held next week.

The city clerk is elected for a tern of four years and is a full-time position.

An 'Impasse' Over Wages For Workers

By BOB PETERSON
Post-Times Writer

Strike sanction being sought by San Bruno public works employes was temporarily put aside Monday night, and negotiations continued with the city's firemen over hours, wages and fringe benefits, too.

The meeting with the firemen was abandoned at 12:15 a.m. However, the city made an offer that the firemen representatives will take back to their membership for a decision. Another meeting for the group, as yet unscheduled, is expected to be held within a week.

Regarding the public works employes, Acting City Mgr. Leo Van Dusen was scheduled to meet Tuesday afternoon with their union representative Phil Murphy to review the method in which utility and labor classification wages were being calculated.

Van Dusen said the public works people had questions on the salaries the city used as comparison figures and the method used in arriving at these figures.

He said himself and Murphy agreed to get together to research more thoroughly the two classifications and that another meeting with the employe group would be set within a week also.

Murphy said he "hoped the impasse would be resolved" before the county labor council

'Bargain Center' Owner Arrested

The operator of a Colma auction studio was arrested Monday after he allegedly accepted $1,000 in payment for five stolen radio sets.

The radios are complete two-way sets, consisting of transmitters as well as receivers, and were still in their original shipping cases.

The transaction was made in the suspect's warehouse, which is directly across the street from the police station in South San Francisco.

Booked there on suspicion of possession of stolen property was John Stella, 49, of 255 Bantry Lane, South San Francisco, owner of Anthony's Bargain Center and Auction Depot at 225 B Street in Colma.

Assistant Sheriff Eugene E. Stewart said that, in addition to the radios, which have an actual value of $6,000, arresting officers confiscated another $6,000 worth of articles identified as owned by the J. C. Penney Company in Concord.

Stewart said the money was paid to Stella by Det. Sgt. John Cassell, who was posing as the operator of a trucking company. Also taking part in the arrest were Deputy Sheriff Gerald Masshar and South San Francisco police officers, who witnessed part of the transaction from the police station across the street.

After the money had been handed over, Stewart reported, Stella said, "I guess that does it. It's all counted."

"No, I don't think you counted on this," Cassell told him, showing his sheriff's badge and taking the money back.

The officer said Stella was "chagrined."

The radio sets, Stewart said,

A 12-year-old Jefferson Elementary School District girl student was the suspect in the locker room theft of a Teddy Bear.

Police said they knew how the girl got into the locker, but not "why?"

S.S.F. Center Plan Before Commission

Acquisition of additional land for expansion of the county center in South San Francisco is expected to come a step closer to reality today.

A staff recommendation that the acquisition is in conformance with the county Master Plan is scheduled to come before the County Planning Commission.

The property consists of five parcels, totaling about four acres, located at Grand Avenue and Oak Avenue near Mission Road adjoining the existing courthouse and Health and Welfare offices.

The 1970-71 county budget includes a $475,000 appropriation for the acquisition.

In approving plans for adding three new courtrooms and other facilities at the South San Francisco site, the Board of Supervisors decided to phase out the Municipal Court branch in Daly City and move it back to South San Francisco. The decision touched off a storm of protest in Daly City officialdom.

San Bruno's Worker Negotiations Go On

meets on Monday, therefore not necessitating the obtaining of strike sanction.

The decision to seek strike sanction through the San Mateo Central Labor Council was announced by Murphy after more than four hours of negotiation last Wednesday night.

Murphy said the main impasse was on wages.

Murphy said the main impasse was on wages, but also included a problem on vacations. The city has already committed itself to an across the-board 5.6 per cent cost - of - living increase for all employes. Murphy said his group was seeking upwards of 10 to 17 per cent increases in salary.

"There was a considerable movement on wages on the part of the city," said Councilman George Corey, one of the members of the city's negotiating team. He said "I don't feel the city is in a position to change or negotiate any differently."

Once the impasse was reached, Murphy asked the councilmen to "maintain impartiality" and seek a solution through a state mediator.

Mayor Neil Christal, however, read the city's code that stated if agreement is not mutually acceptable as to the method of resolving the impasse the matter should be referred to the council. The council would then listen to the facts in the case and and make a determination. He said the councilmen were prepared to do this — which, incidentally, was the suggestion of the city's negotiating team.

Murphy said it was absurd to think that the councilmen, already deeply involved in the negotiations, could come up with an impartial decision after hearing the case again.

Under the procedure followed last night, Council 57 representatives met with the city's negotiating team in a closed room. Once they came to some sort of agreement or offered a proposal, the city's negotiating team would go into executive session with the councilmen to discuss the merits of the proposal. The councilmen would then instruct the city's negotiating team as to a counter proposal which was transmitted back to the union's negotiating team. This team would then take that proposal to the full membership (which last night included wives and children) for a vote.

The city negotiating team, consisting of Councilman Corey, Acting City Manager Leo Van Dusen and Fire Chief Herbert Freitas, was seen shuttling back and forth between rooms for several hours.

During the entire proceedings the city's firemen sat patiently, both waiting their turn and wanting to witness the outcome.

The firemen, incidentally, were scheduled to appear first, but just as negotiation with this group was ready to proceed a fire alarm sounded. Council 57 stepped in and occupied the evening.

Should sanction be given Council 57, which more than likely, it is only permission to strike. The city employes will have to decide on that course later. And Murphy emphatically stressed the fact that "we're still ready to negotiate if they're interested in a third party."

termine how much bonded indebtedness the city could safely go into. Then the projects could be put into a priority listing.

Councilman Frank Mammini also explained the situation. "Since we're going to make a study of the police station, why not find out if this city is capable of bonding $20 million. If not, we can go by way of priority," said Mammini.

The pleas didn't seem to take hold and the instruction of Mayor Ahern to obtain the services of a financial expert for the police facility only, remained.

According to a report of Public Safety Committee Chairman the Rev. Carl Cartright, total cost of a new police facility would be an estimated $1,-950,080. This figure also takes into consideration the use of $250,000 cash on hand for a new police facility, giving an actual total of $2,200,080.

Construction costs on 35,000 squarefeet of property at $35 a square foot comes to $1,-225,000. Furniture was quoted at $24,000.

Other figures include $20,000 for a command status board system, $20,000 for an emergency generator and gasoline storage, $18,000 for an automated record storage and retrieval system, $15,000 for special jail equipment, $14,000 for paving of a parking area, $12,000 for radio equipment, $12,000 for closed circuit television and video taping, $10,000 for a telephone system, $8,000 for radio consoles, $7,500 for other electrical equipment, $6,000 for air conditioning and $2,500 for an intercom system.

Also figured in the total is architectural fees at 10 per cent of the above figures, or $139,400. Then, too, the cost of a three-acre site at $300,000 and a 10 per cent annual cost increase estimate over two years, at $366,680.

The committees were established as a means of advising the councilmen on what capital improvements would be best for the city over the next ten years.

In addition to public safety, councilmen heard Lou Gross report on public works, regarding street, sewer, storm drain and related improvements, and from parks and recreation and cultural committee chairman Bob Minucciani.

BETTER BUSINESS

By LORENE BEASLEY
Better Business Bureau

Has your family convinced you that a pool is necessary for health and happiness? If so, here are some timely tips:

1—Have the contract itemized exactly as to what you are to receive for the puchase price.

2—Be wary if the salesman represents to you that your pool will be used for advertising purposes, as a model job, or that you will be given a special discounted price.

3—Be sure you understand the guarantee, and specifically, what it covers and for how long. Remember: The manufacturer's warranty on material defects may not cover a workman's installation. If such is the case, obtain a separate guarantee from the installer.

4—Watch out for the firm that claims it is a manufacturer. You are actually doing business with a retail outlet which has all the costs of advertising, sales commission and rent . . . in other words, the costs of retailing.

5—Know your contractor. Inquire into his background and talk to some of his other customers. A successful contractor thrives on his own reputation of providing a quality product reasonably priced, with service after the sale.

6—Do not sign completion certificates before the work is finished in accordance with your contract.

7—Get verbal promises in writing. If they are important enough to get you to sign the contract, they should be ON the contract.

8—Be wary of flamboyant ads with misleading illustrations offering attractive pools at a seemingly unbelievable low price. Such advertised pools are usually knocked by the sales people (often they are not available) or the customer finds that essential equipment is not included in the advertised package.

Actual price of the pool may be as much as twice the advertised price by the time installation is made.

Don't be fooled by the statement "this pool is maintenance free." Pools, just as other items are subject to weathering, atmospheric conditions, stress and strain, just as any other product that would require more or less care and maintenance.

There are many thoroughly reliable firms whose integrity and work can be trusted; but a random choice of a contractor who is not known to you can be very costly. It pays to investigate before you invest.

3 Brunans Held In Shooting Of Aide

Three San Brunans were arrested Monday night in connection with the shooting of the struck San Rafael Independent Journal's production manager.

One of the men was indentified as a member of the San Francisco Mailers' Union.

Allan W. Daly, 30, Independent-Journal production manager, remained in very critical condition today at San Francisco General Hospital. He was gunned down Saturday night at his San Francisco home by two intruders demanding money.

Held for investigation of attempted murder and robbery were Frank Thurber, 45, of 1086 Montgomery Street, San Bruno, and two 17-year-old San Bruno youths.

Police identified the youths as Larry Rutherford and Richard Wamsley, of 513 Seventh Avenue, San Bruno.

Thurber was taken to City Jail and the youths were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Alex LeBlanc, mailroom foreman for the San Francisco Printing Co., confirmed police statements that Thurber is a mailroom employe. The firm publishes both the afternoon San Francisco Examiner and the morning San Francisco Chronicle.

LeBlanc said Thurber is a member of Local 18 of the San Francisco Mailers' Union a branch of the International Typographical Union.

Local 21 of the typographers has been on strike since Jan. 7 against the San Rafael newspaper, which has continued publishing.

Leon Olsen, president of the typographers' local, said earlier Monday the union had nothing to do with the shooting and "we don't indulge in that kind of activities."

Homicide Chief Lt. Charles Ellis said Thurber was arrested at his home and the youths were arrested in other parts of San Bruno.

Ellis said Daly's two assailants "tried to give the impression they were robbers." Mrs. Daly's coin purse, taken by one of the men, was found outside, the money still in it.

Doctors administered massive blood transfusions Sunday and Monday to Daly for internal hemorrhaging caused by a .45 caliber slug that entered his stomach.

Daly's home had been the target of previous harassment, including two firebombs thrown at the house June 15 and 16, homicide inspector John McKenna said.

Dump Work Said Too Expensive

said a quick test was made of the dump site the day the city went before the board and "there were no sulfides and no pollution." He said the tests were taken by John Collins, superintendent of the sewage treatment plant. "I believe we have a case that leaching is not as serious as first indicated," said Noonan.

The city attorney went on to explain the soil engineer can monitor the slope at six to eight stations to determine whether it is unstable, and suggested money (estimated at $5,000) be spent for a study of the dike condition and whether it is in fact causing pollution.

Dunham noted that while instrumentation (monitoring) is taking place slippage could occur.

"It was a haphazard job and not properly planned from the beginning," said Stagnaro.

This contention was backed by Louis Goss, director of the department of public works. He said he had written "many letters" to the scavenger company saying in effect they were not putting in the present dike in to specifications. No legal action was ever taken to make the scavenger company conform. Stagnaro said time was a major factor in the dike construction.

Goss also contended that another mistake was to allow the present dike to be built up from a height of 22 feet to 28 feet without consultation with a soils engineer.

According to Goss, Collins was to begin three consecutive days of tests at the site beginning Tuesday.

S.S.F. Wants Park Site— It's In D.C.

A request from South San Francisco asking Daly City to de-annex a small parcel of land so it can be annexed to that city for use as a park site has been tabled by the Daly City council pending more information.

Councilman Frank Pacelli informed City Manager David Rowe he would like South San Francisco City Manager Tom McKenzie to appear before the council and explain certain matters relating to the proposed Clay Avenue Park east of the Cabrillo Freeway near Hickey Boulevard.

Pacelli said it wasn't clear "in my mind" how South San Francisco intends to develop the site.

McKenzie, in a letter to the Daly City Council, pointed out that city intends to expend some $70,000 in development of the site.

Dog School At Bruno

Youngsters all over are on vacation — but for dogs it's to school they go with free obedience training at the San Bruno Obedience School for Dogs on Saturday mornings and Thursday evenings at the Edgemont School, Jenevein at Acacia in San Bruno.

Is your dog a biter? Is he an excessive barker? Does your dog take you for a walk? All of these problems can be solved through obedience training. Classes are open to all dogs aged six months and up. The only requirements are a six-foot leather leash and a choke chain, obtainable at any pet shop.

The instructors are Mal Lightfoot, Ralph Medefessor, and David Orellana, with years of experience in training people to train their dogs. There will also be a conformation handling class conducted by Carol Bullwinkle, a well known Bay Area handler of dogs.

Information about classes may be obtained from the school's founder, Mal Lightfoot.

D.C. Firemen Ratify New Pay Package

from the agreement approved by his Board.

The ratification was almost unanimous with only a handful of firemen expressing dissatisfaction over it.

And while the new pay schedules do not restore parity pay with police it closes the salary gap between the two safety agencies.

A top salaried policeman with four years or more service under the new contract (up 7.9 per cent) receives $996 per month, while the new post of Fire Engineer-Operator will be paid $983 monthly.

There are no changes in working hours or medical plan coverage for firemen this year.

Still up in the air is the residency requirement, conduct of union business during normal duty hours, nature of the initial examination and requirements for the Fire Engineer-Operator positions, and work schedule stabilization and scheduling practices.

Rowe informed the council only one step for the new Fire Engineer post had been made established. There will be 24 such slots open in the department effective January 1, 1971 after talks on the matter have been held.

Holiday pay was also raised from 4.5 per cent to 6.25 per cent.

The package increased the budget by $72,250 bringing the new total to $7,911,730.

Rowe said this now leaves an estimated $222,200 to be raised by property taxes or the proposed business license tax.

Billboard Appeal In S.S.F. Denied

An appeal to erect two billboards that had previously been removed voluntarily was denied Monday night by South San Francisco councilmen.

Martin J. Bloom, vice president of Park 'N Fly at 101 Terminal Court told the councilmen, "I'm a businessman on a spot—partially of my own making."

He went on to explain that he had a 1100-car parking lot that, as of this week, has contained a peak load of 200 cars. Bloom contended he is losing money at the rate of $12,000 a month because he is unable to get his message to the people about the service he offers.

However, Bloom indicated also that his need for a billboard was temporary—"until the word got out." Therefore he was involved in a contract with Advan Inc., an outdoor advertising firm for an approximate two-year lease on the two billboards, contingent on council approval.

This is the hook on which City Planner Dan Pass hung his objections.

"The general advertising sign does nothing but compete with signs of businesses within the city," said Pass. He pointed out that what Bloom was desiring were not perpetual business signs, rather billboards "that can advertise anything from vodka to soda."

Pass said that if Bloom desired more appurtenant advertising signs, and they were reasonable requests, the planning commissioners would give serious consideration to approving them.

When Bloom established the Par "N Fly firm he, of his own volition, had the two billboards taken down because he felt they were not necessary, but now claims other signs along Bayshore prevent his remaining signs from being seen.

Don C. McNear, vice president and director of real estate for Advan, said economics was the reason for his being there. "It (billboards) represents a great deal of income," he said.

McNear said the construction of two new billboards would cost an estimated $20,000. He said he also was willing to rebuild the two existing billboards on the property, at a cost to his firm of another $35,000.

In referring to the city's recent war on billboards, Pass pointed out that there now are 16 billboards in a little more than a mile stretch on Bayshore —"more than any city in the county."

Councilman Frank Bertucelli made a confusing motion to deny the appeal. But in seconding the motion, which was clarified by Pass, Councilman William Borba came on strong saying, "We should recommend to the planning commission that all billboards be denied in South San Francisco."

Colma Auction Man Booked

are the property of the Motorola Company. They were originally shipped to the Eclipse Timber Company in Washington State, Stewart explained, but the company canceled the deal and shipped them back to the Motorola warehouse in Menlo Park. Motorola officials believed the sets were still in transit, according to Stewart. Stella, Stewart said, declined to say how the sets came into his possession. And the assistant sheriff refused to state how his office found out that Stella had them.

After the arrest in the warehouse at 415 Grand Avenue, Stewart reported, Stella gave the officers permission to make a search. The $6,000 worth of brand new clothing, blankets, tents and appliances — all still bearing the Penney's Concord store labels — were found in a separate room, Stewart said. Stella would not say where the articles came from, according to the officer.

After booking at the police station across the street, Stella was released without bail pending arraignment on July 20.

Stewart said steps were started yesterday to suspend his auctioneer's license.

Pacifica To Use D.C. Dump Site

ment by city manager David Rowe concerning a county-wide plan for garbage disposal sparked a lively conversation on the subject.

Everything from environment to dump sites to modern packaging of consumer products was discussed by the council and spectators.

Councilman Pacelli said the mounting refuse problem would remain a major concern of cities until manufacturers decided to repackage their products and start using such things as returnable milk bottlees again.

Incineration was possibly the answer, another person suggested, however, today's refuse incineration plants did not fully meet the needs of the community. Not only did these incinerators pour tons of pollutants into the atmosphere, they left a 30 per cent residue that still had to be disposed of—somewhere.

City Manager Rowe pointed out in his explanation of the plan that the county would have control over where to dump refuse and how much to charge, among other things.

Rowe noted that in earlier talks on the subject, two possible dump sites were discussed by the county—Marsh Road and Ox Mountain.

Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett instructed Rowe to study the county proposals and bring the matter back to the council at a later meeting.

D.C. Council Asks About Water Merger

The question being asked in official circles today is: Will the Dimond Public Utility District ever merge its facilities with Daly City?

Talks concerning this matter have been held off and on for the past several years — the latest about 16 months ago when officials of Dimond asked for engineering assistance in completing several water line projects.

They needed the services of the Daly City Engineering Department to expedite their projects, it was explained.

Those projects were completed and now the water district, which is physically located in both Daly City and San Francisco and services water customers in the northeast section of the city, wants to use the services of the engineers again — this time for five more projects.

But this time some councilmen are balking at the request made by Dimond's William Counts.

They want to know how much the city has contributed to the district in services over the years and when it plans to merge with Daly City water services.

City Engineer David Macabee informed the council that the five projects would cost the utilite district about $37,000 to complete and at the present water rate now being charged customers "it will take about six years to pay for the projects."

The Dimond Utility District uses a pay-as-you-go policy for making improvements in their system.

Councilman Frank Pacelli said he wants to hold a joint meeting with the district and instructed city manager David Row to make a cost breakdown of the amount already spent on engineering consultants for the district.

The Dimond Utility District was annexed into Daly City in 1963 with the Bayshore District.

Surf Victim Identified

A man whose body was found floating in the surf off Moss Beach early Saturday has been identified as Gerald Lee Sires, 55, of 434 Cavanaugh Street, San Mateo, an inspector for United Air Lines.

The coroner's office said that death has been attributed to apparent natural causes, although determination of a definite cause has been deferred for microscopic and toxicological examination. Sires had been treated in the past for a heart condition, it was reported.

Varied Reactions To County Offer

Northern Cities Split With South Over Garbage

The battle lines of what could become a serious conflict between cities in the northern end of the county against cities in the south were drawn at last week's meeting of the Council of Mayors of San Mateo County in San Mateo as County Manager M.D. Tarshes made a county offer to coordinate garbage disposal plans for the future.

A difference in city attitudes immediately became apparent as Tarshes finished his presentation, and representatives of north county cities maintained that disposal costs for all cities should be uniform, while Councilman William R. Lawson of Menlo Park, in whose city one of two main dumps will be located emphasized his city has reached no agreement on uniform charges throughout the county.

Tarshes explained that the county's role is only one of coordinating plans as each city, scavenger company and sanitary district cannot handle its separate problems alone.

He said two potential sites are under consideration—a dump at the end of Marsh Road on Menlo Park's bayfront and a 2000-acre site owned by the San Mateo County Scavenger company on Ox mountain east of Half Moon Bay.

For the present, Tarshes said, the Ox Mountain site will be used only on a limited basis to assure Menlo Park adequate fill.

Cities, the county manager said, must determine their own methods of collection, and the county is waiting for the reaction of cities to the countywide plan.

Mayor Nick Gust of Pacifica, chairman of the Mayors' Council, said cities in the northern part of the county want uniform such as Pacifica and Daly City pickup costs, or communities would have "tremendous hauling costs."

Councilman Theodore H. Long of San Bruno pointed out that the North County Council of Cities has gone on record as asking the county to purchase the Cx Mountain site. Tarshes, however, reported the board of supervisors feel it is better to contract with a private firm rather than go to condemnation. The San Mateo County Scavenger company has already bought the coastside site.

"A serious question develops when you talk about an equal rate for transportation," Councilman Herbert G. Petersen of Redwood City commented. He expressed doubts that cities in the south would be willing to "subsidize" transportation costs for northern communities.

"I think their costs should be greater if their transportation is farther," Petersen asserted.

Councilman Thomas M. Jenkins of San Carlos said at the last meeting of the mayors there was no division of the county into north and south. He suggested the problem be approached on a basis of total benefit for the entire county.

"It's not going to be long before we have to take Redwood City's garbage over there," Jenkins commented, referring to the Ox Mountain site.

Councilman R. David Martin of Burlingame said the proposed agreements between the county and cities discussed only dumping fees, but when dumping took place in the San Mateo and Burlingame area fees were equalized for the south.

"Any discussion between Menlo Park and the county didn't take into consideration hauling rates," Lawson insisted. He said his city would not enter into any agreement to subsidize the dumping "of Daly City garbage in Menlo Park. If you have a better place—good luck. If you're coming into our town, we'll tell you how to operate there."

Councilman Frank Bertucelli of South San Francisco maintained that people in the northern part of the county are already paying as much taxes as they can and they cannot afford an increase in their garbage disposal rates.

"We have no answer on costs," Supervisor Jean Fassler told the mayors. "Quite frankly, this is not the county's problem. I would just as soon you take it over. The county doesn't want to get into the garbage business."

It was finally agreed that individual councils should discuss the question, and that each city will appoint a representative to a committee that will discuss the question with the board of supervisors.

St. Clair Revives D.C. Court Battle

County Supervisor Robert St. Clair last week continued his fight to save the Municipal Court in Daly City, even though it meant breaking a rule of the Board of Supervisors.

At the close of the board meeting St. Clair questioned comments attributed to Municipal Court Judge F. Jose de Larios about the "inefficiency" of the Daly City branch and asked County Manager M. E. Tarshes to obtain the cost figures and make a report.

The matter was brought up off the agenda by St. Clair over the objections of Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald, who said, "The decision (to discontinue the court in Daly City) has been made." The board rule is that no matter may be brought up off the agenda without the unanimous consent of the board.

Also, in past years it has been board policy that no matter should be introduced off the agenda, regardless of consent, unless some urgent action is needed. That policy is not being followed this year.

The decision to phase out the court in Daly City and move it back to the courthouse center in South San Francisco was made by the supervisors during budget hearings last week. St. Clair, a former Daly City councilman and mayor, fought the move but was outvoted. A majority of the board felt the Daly City operation is too costly for the amount of additional convenience it may provide residents of that city.

Although he did not have the required unanimous consent, St. Clair asked Tarshes to compute the cost of the Daly City court compared with what it would be in South San Francisco. Chairman Jean Fassler also tried to dissuade St. Clair, without success. She, too, pointed out that the decision had been made.

"Things have been said that are detrimental to the Daly City court," St. Clair insisted, "and we should get a cost breakdown to see if these things that have been stated can be verified.

"Judge de Larios has made all these statements. Let's see if they can be substantiated. It's that simple."

Judge de Larios, who sits in South San Francisco while Judge Charles Becker mans the Daly City court, has been quoted as saying that the "inefficiency" of the Daly City operation was a factor in the rejection this year of a request for a fourth judge in the Northern Judicial District.

Blaze Strikes Eatery

A fire which started in the charcoal broiler of the Lyons Restaurant Thursday in San Bruno caused $5,000 worth of damage and forced the San Bruno Fire Department to make two trips to the scene. No one was injured.

A fire department spokesman said that grease in a broiler caught on fire at 5:05 p.m. and went up into the exhaust ducts on the roof, and caught the roof on fire.

He did not know how many people were in the restaurant at the time, he said.

The firemen appeared to have the blaze under control at 6:27 p.m. and went back to the station, but had to return to the scene when the fire started up again in the air conditioning.

They put the damage as a result of the blaze at $5,000. The exhaust and air conditioning systems both sustained severe damage.

Cow Palace Flea Market Is Relocated

The Flea Market, which was burned out of its quarters at the famed Cow Palace some three weeks ago, has relocated in Brisbane.

But whether the profusion of seller's stalls and snack shops will be in full operation by the Fourth of July weekend is dependent upon County Department of Health and Welfare officials.

Main concern of the county health department is the system of sewage disposal and eating facilities at the new Tunnel Road site inside the old Auto Auction building.

Brisbane acting city manager Gene Aiello said the Flea Market was issued a business license contingent on approval of the fire and police departments and the County Health Department.

The latter still has not given its okay to the market, according to Melvyn Seid, sanitary engineer with the health organization.

Previously, Daly City City Attorney Albert Polonsky had filed suit against eating facilities within the market area and the matter was pending when fire destroyed the building housing the Flea Market.

Meanwhile, between 800-1000 local shoppers roamed the market last weekend in search of bargains. Operators anticipate a larger crowd this weekend.

Scavenger Firm Given Time Limit

The South San Francisco Scavenger Company has until the end of the month to come up with a detailed proposal for preventing further deterioration of the Oyster Point dump site and subsequent pollution of the bay.

Company president George Stagnaro, aided by South San Francisco City Attorney John Noonan, appeared before the Water Quality Control Board to win the extension of an earlier issued cease and desist order by the board.

Stagnaro told the board the only solution to seepage into the bay from the dump site would be the creation of a land filled dike of more than one million cubic feet of earth.

He noted that this plan may not find favor with Bay Conservation and Development Commission (BCDC), however.

While Stagnaro and the city (named in the cease and desist order) attempt to work something out they must follow one other provision of the Water Quality Control Board—station a man at the dump to prevent any further erosion of the covered site.

Trouble began when agents of the Water Quality Control Board spotted seepage into the bay, even though the material had been compacted, and the dump has been closed since 1968.

Stagnaro last month made a special plea to the South San Francisco city councilmen to help him out of his predicament.

The scavenger operator had earlier, through the city, hired an engineering consultant to determine the best methods of repairing the dike before settling on the land filled dike.

Stagnaro told the councilmen he must obtain permission from the BCDC and was apprehensive as to whether he could obtain it.

At that time, Noonan urged Stagnaro to proceed though the Water Quality Control Board for the extension to prevent a $6,000 a day fine and the councilmen adopted a resolution in which it was stated the city would work with the BCDC to seek the okay of that body.

State Told Road Policy

South San Francisco has made its wishes known—unofficially— to the state highway department regarding extension of Interstate 380 from Junipero Serra to the airport.

In a council study session, attended by Department of Highways representatives, the councilmen said they opposed the 380 extension on city lands unless the state included an extension of existing Harbor Way over Colma Creek as an access road.

According to City Manager Tom McKenzie, the highway consultant hired by the city, Don Goodrich, with Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Conpany of San Francisco, said the present proposal would make the already bad traffic worse on Airport Boulevard.

Prudential Lauds Rookie Of The Year

Daniel L. Emerson, 4727 Callan Boulevard, has been named "Rookie of the Year" for the Hammond and Associates agency of the Prudential Insurance Co., according to Sutton Hammond, manager.

Emerson in his first year as a special agent for the company placed and serviced more than $1 million of financial security to local residents.

According to Hammond, "by placing more than $1 million of insurance during a 12-month period, he accomplished during his first year in the insurance industry what most underwriters throughout the United States will never achieve during their careers."

Born and reared in San Francisco, Emerson is an alumnus of City College of San Francisco and a member of the San Francisco Life Underwriters Association.

He has a wife, Linda.

Thank you for your letters. To answer your questions: My stand on Cambodia is that we should supply arms and ammunitions to those countries that wish to protect themselves from Communism and teach their people how to protect themselves. Jeff Panels Report

By WILL E. THOMAS
Post City Editor

Since January various subcommittees of the Jefferson Union High School District Planning Council—a group made up of students, teachers, administrators and parents—has been meeting to analyze curriculum needs of the community in education.

Last week a lengthy progress report from committees was presented to, and discussed by trustees of the district meeting at Serramonte High School.

The areas of concern included educational television, Senate Bill 1, bilingual-bicultural problems and needs, adult night school, drug abuse and philosophy. Reports from individual school planning committees also were drafted.

Jefferson High District's Planning Council is spearheaded by Ernest Ribera, assistant superintendent for instruction, who called the "possibility of involvement for everyone who lives in the Jefferson High District" in curriculum planning as "one of the most significant aspects" of the relatively new planning program.

Members of the Planning Council are:

Dr. George Riba, Daly City; Julia Monares, Daly City; Otto Saltenberger, Pacifica, the Rev. Joseph Nobles, Daly City; Gary Romreill, Brisbane; Ed DeMartini, Jefferson teacher; Merritt Adelman, Oceana teacher; Mike Tugendreich, Serramonte teacher; Tom Mohr, Terra Nova counselor; Mrs. Doris Lindors, Westmoor Counselor;

Joanne Hendrick, Jefferson student; Clifford Baker, Oceana student; Tom Nuris, Serramonte student; Louis Gonzales, Terra Nova student; James Musslewhite, Westmoor student; Ribera; and Edward Morgan, district superintendent.

"We feel no one need feel left out," Ribera told trustees in explaining that the permanent Planning Council approach to improvement of high school curriculum replaces numerous separate, short-term advisory committees that are disbanded, with thanks, after completion of specific topics.

It is, Ribera said, a standing committee that "people are a part of and can continue to work within the structure of the Jefferson High School District."

He added, "The climate at this time, I feel, is excellent," and he emphasized that the committee must continue until its recommendations are adopted and implemented.

Ribera noted that while 17 actually have been named to the Planning Council "at least" 200 others have been involved in its activities, through subcommittees that reached for even greater community involvement, and units at each of the high schools in the district.

Individual school committees included teachers, students and parents, as well.

Ribera called the report merely one citing progress, emphasizing it was not a final offering to trustees.

Counselor Tom Mohr of Terra Nova said there was a "lot of participation from students and I think this is very unusual."

A committee of 50 persons who live in the Jefferson High School District have compiled a list of "next year's goals and concerns" in bi-lingual and bicultural education.

Verbally explaining the Planning Council's subcommittee report, Mrs. Julia Monares said Latin Americans' "grievances are very realistic."

She urged the board and the community "pay attention to what the committee is saying."

Mrs. Monares said attention must be given to the socially, pyschologically and educationally dis-oriented among the Spanish-speaking.

COMMUNITY 'MUST LISTEN'

Bi-Lingual Unit 'Polishing' Goals

She said pupils of Latin American descent going into elementary school are urged "to forget Spanish," and told to "learn English." Yet, she continued, when the student gets into high school, he is required to take a foreign language, usually Spanish.

Trustee Ed Solomon pointed out that many persons of foreign extraction can speak their foreign tongue with excellence, but cannot read it.

Varied dialects would cause problems, too, Solomon said.

Solomon asked how the committee would "plan to cope with this situation."

Mrs. Monares saw that as a "challenge" to parents.

Supt. Edward Morgan, who once held educational positions in the San Joaquin Valley, noted that in his schools many Spanish-speaking youngers enrolled in Spanish I and usually "failed it" because of problems of dialect.

Ernest Ribera, assistant superintendent, explained that the bi-lingual theory is to "reinforce the native tongue" so the student in turn will "better use English."

Abe Evanich of Serramonte High School said that Daly City school plans next year to add a Latin American counselor who will attempt to communicate with the Spanish-speaking parents.

How to communicate with parents remains the problem, Board Chairman Albert Teglia noted.

"It is a problem," agreed Mrs. Monares.

Tom Nuris, the Serramonte High School student body president, said many of the non-English speaking students there depended on other students to interpret for them.

Among 14 "goals and concerns" being "polished" by the bilingual - bicultural subcomittee:

—Initiation of cultural programs with community involvement.

—Development of inservice work shops in areas of need.

—Have a bilingual home counselor for each school and-or district, noting a need for "better parent-school rapport."

—Find out how many on school staff are "interested" in bilingual - bicultural education.

—Have representatives from bilingual committee serve on local planning councils of each school, since "introducing bilingual education is a problem, so we must educate parents."

—How to implement adults classes.

—Future surveys on personnel and resources to help others understand the problems of bilingual and bicultural students.

—Have more bilingual - bicultural teachers, classified personnel and administrators in school district.

—Have bilingual forms and material, such as handbooks (P.E. and dress codes, suspension regulations).

—Student involvement.

—Why there are so many dropouts and what nationalities have the greatest ratio; how many Spanish speaking students graduated this year? How many going on to college?

The committee also urged pre-service and in-service training designed and introduced to teachers, and prospective teachers to better understand the many problems — sociological, psychological, cultural (and economics at times) which have impeded the educational aspiration of bilingual - bicultural children in the public schools today."

Additionally, the report declared: "It should also seek to demonstrate that in order for the children to learn, a better understanding of these students is a must — for without this, there can only be instruction and not education."

The committee defined bilingualism as the "ability to function equally well in English and at least one other language."

Biculturalism, the unit determined, is the "ability to be equally comfortable in embracing the American culture as well as at least one other culture."

Nine-Point Drug Abuse Plan Proposed

The drug abuse subcommittee of the Jefferson High School District's Planning Council is prepared to offer nine firm recommendations for immediate implementation.

In last week's report to trustees, Dr. Floyd Gonella, assistant superintendent for special educational services and a member of the committee, indicated members were tired of mere talk about the battle against drugs.

Here's what was urged:

—Each school, with district support, provide programs and seek innovative practices in dealing with the drug problem.

—The elementary school district be "encouraged" to provide drug abuse programs at the early stages of education, that a letter of that substance be written, with high school district assistance offered.

—Establishment of a "clearing house" of programs, to disseminate information to the schools in the district concerning what programs, like Serramonte's "Operation Help," are being conducted at individual schools.

—Establishment of an "official list" of speakers in the district, "to provide the schools and current and approved list of individuals who would be qualified and acceptable to come on campus and speak to students concerning drug abuse."

—Establishment of group counseling sessions at each of the schools involving some of the core group drug users on campuses.

—Local media be contacted concerning dissemination of information to the public.

—Establishment of a central clearing house for obtaining and disseminating drug abuse information.

—Establishment of a pilot program similar to the South San Francisco School District Drug Counseling Workshop plan.

The County of San Mateo Film Department be encouraged to preview and purchase high quality films dealing with the problem of drug abuse.

Gonella said his subunit considered the report to be in finalized form. Though he urged its immediate acceptance by the board so the district could press implementation, he agreed the subcommittee's report should go back to the Planning Council first.

Trustee Ed Solomon was concerned that individual schools would be responsible for their own programs, rather than the implementation of a district-wide program.

Gonella replied that the group was aware of different problems — and of different sources of combatting them — at each of the district's six schools.

Terra Nova, for instance, works with outside persons in their drug abuse battle, while Serramonte, on the other hand, has attempted to cope with the problem inside its own walls.

A plan in which team teaching in drug abuse will be utilized at Oceana High also was disclosed.

Gonella pointed out that an individual school knows its student body needs best.

Solomon said he "just can't buy" the concept that drug use is so different at each school. He noted youngsters can buy drugs on "any campus in any city."

In many respects, the district would have a role in the program, Gonzela said, referring so some of the subgroup's recommendations. It could ultimately become a district-wide program.

Trustee Jane Powell said parents must get involved, that student drug problems could be aired in meetings involving educators, parents and the student.

Pacifica Home Is Damaged

A house fire in Pacifica Wednesday afternoon was estimated at a $5,000 loss to the structure and its contents, and took the life of a pet dog.

Firemen said the call on the fire at 1031 Anza Drive came in at about 3:30 p.m. The owner and occupant, Sherry Tanga, was not home at the time.

Authorities said the fire was centered in one bedroom and the hallway, although heat and smoke damage was spread throughout the entire house.

Cause of the blaze is being investigated.

Jeff Panel Asks Unit Reductions

The Senate Bill 1 subcommittee of Jefferson High School District is expected to recommend that students be required to complete successfully a total of 210 units during the 1970-71 school term to be graduated.

The group said so in last week's progress report to trustees.

It will urge that in the 1971-72 school term the requirement would be reduced to 200 units.

Other recommendations expected:

—Attendance and participation of students in 400 minutes of physical education every ten days, as required by Senate Bill 1.

—Mathematics: Initiation of a proficiency examination, as required by Senate Bill 1, ideally should be given by the end of the sophomore year so the student would have an opportunity to take an additional course during the junior or senior year. Ten units probably will be required.

—English: Twenty units of basic skills should be passed, the committee stated, including reading composition and grammar. Ten units of electives in English should be passed.

Social studies: Thirty units passed should be required. Ten units should be devoted to U.S. history and government, ten to an introduction to social studies and ten units of electives "designed to satisfy the characteristic needs of those students being served."

(The committee said, "It seems clear the present requirement of 40 units does not allow students necessary room for electives." The unit thought students "should be free to take a greater number of courses which have greater significance for them personally and teachers in other departments should be allowed the opportunity to design courses to which students would be attracted simply because they are interested.")

Science: Ten units passed should be required.

Tom Mohr, a member of the Planning Council and a Terra Nova counselor, said the group attempted to contact as many students and teachers as possible.

"Juniors and seniors agreed almost entirely with the recommendations," Mohr declared.

The gradual reduction of required total units for graduation came about because "many students already have prepared their schedules for next year," Mohr explained.

The district currently requires 220 units for graduation. On the other hand, San Francisco School District requires but 190 units.

It was asserted that Senate Bill No. 1 was designed to "release students from the mold that prevented design of a program geared to the needs, interests and abilities of each student. There is an attempt, as well, to allow individual schools and districts to develop programs geared to community needs, resources, talents and facilities available to the pupils.

"The court has now opened the way for the majority of voters who want good and safe school buildings for their children to prevail at future bond elections."

San Bruno Studies Business Licenses

San Bruno's business licenses came under brief discussion between sporadic executive session breaks of the union negotiations with city employes last week.

Councilman Ten Long suggested the city contract with a certified accountant for a spot check of business license.

"The contention is that a full-time auditor could catch possible errors in business license payments, which would mean more monry for the city.

"If we made a spot check we would be able to determine if the payments are accurate and there would be no need for a full-time position," he said.

Councilman Maurice Hamilton admitted hiring a CPA was better than hiring a full-time man, but added he thought it would be even wiser to simply ask the businessmen to supply a balance sheet, copy of income tax or similar statement to "prove their gross receipts."

In a letter to Acting City Manager Leon Van Dusen, City Attorney Joe Galligan said, "The most effective procedure would be first to ask a businessman (to verify the accuracy). Should he refuse, the tax collector would report it to the councilmen who in turn would issue a show cause order why the license should not be revoked.

"It would then be up to the businessman to prove to the council what his gross receipts actualy were," said the letter.

Galligan added that he "doubted if more than one or two cases" would have to be highlighted because of the resultant press coverage.

Under the city's code section on licenses, the city has the right to audit and inspect books and records "as may be necessary in their judgment to verify or ascertain the amount of license tax due."

Mayor Neil Christal first brought the matter of possibly hiring an audit specialist for the city clerk office because of apparent concern among merchants that payment of business license fees were not uniform, even among similar business establishments.

A check with City Clerk Carl Hultberg revealed no concern of impropriety. He said that as far as he knew the businesses in the city were paying their appropriate business license fees.

The city's annual financial report for the fiscal year July 1968 to June 1969 reported a sum of $71,654 for all business licenses. Hultberg said this figure included approximately 1300 businesses and stressed that it also included apartments as well as in and out-of-town licenses, such as vendors.

Presently working on the 1969-1970 financial report, Hultberg offered a cursory comparison which showed some 1250 businesses totaling a little more than $70,000 in fees.

Two Thefts In San Bruno

Two unrelated burglaries in San Bruno during the weekend netted thieves an estimated $2,400.

Police said the home of Horman Eugene Rosenbalm of 3651 Ysabel Drive was burglarized some time between Friday and Sunday. Taken were two television sets, a rifle and jewelry. Value of the loss was estimated at $1,400.

Sharp Park Road Funds Approved

Allocation of $123,000 in county gas tax funds to assist alignment of Sharp Park Road has been approved by the County Board of Supervisors.

Deputy County Engineer S. H. Cantwell recommended that the county funds be given to supplement money Pacifica had accumulated over a period of five years under the city-county select road system program that is funded by a special one-cent tax levy.

Cantwell explained that the money from the city-county fund is supposed to pay half of the cost of approved projects undertaken by cities on streets within their boundaries that are considered of areawide importance. Pacifica's five-year accumulation came to only $169,000, however, Cantwell explained, $123,000 less than 50 per cent of the anticipated cost.

The engineer said he recommended the supplemental allocation because of the extraordinary importance of Sharp Park Road to the North County area.

A similar improvement project is being planned by San Bruno on the part of Sharp Park Road running through that city. Cantwell said he will also recommend the use of general county gas tax funds for that purpose.

Fireworks Cause N. County Fires

North San Mateo County fire departments spent much of the July 4 holiday extinguishing grass fires, caused by fireworks.

Apparently only two caused structural damage.

The shingle roof of the Robert Smith home at 2431 Toyon in San Bruno caught fire at 10 p.m. Saturday.

Fireworks reportedle were set off in a bedroom at 823 Hemlock in South San Francisco at 8:26 p.m. Saturday, damaging a bed and a closet.

There also was minor damage to a porch at the rear of 521 Linden Avenue, South San Francisco, at 6:16 p.m. firemen said.

In fires unrelated to celebration of the holiday:

John Karl of 3251 Susan Drive, San Bruno, escaped injury when vapors from gasoline he was using apparently were ignited by sparks from a kitchen vent fan motor. Firemen said Karl was using the gasoline to clean the burners of an electric stove. Damage to the kitchen was estimated at $400.

Two piles of lumber, a saw and a table at the Pacifica Lumber Yard, 4275 Coast Highway, were destroyed at 5:06 a.m. Sunday. Cause of the blaze has not been determined.

Heat damage was caused throughout the John Crader residence at 510 Paloma, Pacifica, at 12:52 p.m. Saturday. In addition, beds in two bedrooms and a chair in the living room were destroyed, firemen said.

Woman Is Attacked

A 22-year-old San Bruno woman was attacked and raped in her apartment bedroom early Sunday morning, according to a police report.

The victim told police she had stopped in a restaurant after working late and then want home to bed. She said it wasn't long before she heard a noise. She sat up in bed to see a white male adult about 5-8 in his early 20's come into her bedroom.

Police said the victim saw the man displaying a knife.

THE MARQUEE

Youth See Through 'Sweetheart'

"The Magic Garden of Stanley Sweetheart," may today mean something more to Robert Westbrook than when he wrote it. He's since married a former actress of Actor's Workshop and purchased a 35-acre ranch in Woodside, but that was before he put to pen his semi-autobiographical that was further prostituted by film producer Martin Poll and director Leonard Horn.

It might have been a generation gap that translated the novel to cinema so badly but Westbrook, the son of columnist Sheila Graham, comes off badly. It's currently playing on the Peninsula and I can't recommend it to sensitive, impressionable youngsters or knowledgeable adults, for that matter.

The author may have wanted to say something about his youth, his relation to the adult world, and more importantly, his struggle with the growing up process. But it all comes off on screen as a commercial cop out, a dirty movie, if you will, and one that is geared to the drop-out, acid freaking society who will identify with the sexually, psychedelically turned on youth faction (few of which are filmgoers) who will identify with the fantasies of the author.

WESTBROOK WROTE THE SCREEN PLAY and while it follows the book with some degree of accuracy, the camera presupposes you have read the book and skips indiscriminately many salient points that would otherwise make the film cohesive. There are so many unanswered questions that you lose track and interest in the adventues of its young her (who is really something of a schmuck-bas---d) that you sympathize more with the girls he's involved with than the central character.

It is hardly news that girls are sexually permissive these days. So his sexual exploits with virgin and roommate, hippies and liberated experimenters is hardly new. The naive encounters and pedestrian come-ons (I'm making an underground film and would like to star in it . . . didn't you hear it yesterday as, 'Honey, would you like to star in a movie?") are old hat, as is much in the wanderings, sophomoric probings of a college student rebelling against parent and authority and out to discover the big, bad world on his own?

Don Johnson is credible as the oversexed, experimental filmmaker and his encounters with willing, nubile classmates (Dianne Hull, Cathy Wellington, Fran Halsworth and Holly Near) is second-hand adolescent confession and not exactly unfamiliar to the average filmgoer.

AS FOR SOMETHING NEW AND DIFFERENT, there is the penetrating portrayal of Michael Greer, former female impersonator from the Purple Onion in San Francsico. He plays a dope pusher (a straight role) who befriends the neophytes and advises them on how to keep clean and go straight; good advice that is lost to their deaf ears. It is the only believable part in the film.

Linda Gillin portrays the hippie girl whom sex with one person (a man) isn't enough. When it becomes necessary to go beyond the pale of convention and make the scene with other combinations I began to suspect the endurance of Stanley Sweetheart, who in the end sees the folly of his excesses and realizes the extent of his ennui, and turns hopefully into the sunlight of tomorrow in search of a fuller, more rewarding life.

It's a soap opera for the now generation and I viewed it as a phoney concession to commercial filmmaking. The "Magic Garden" became a patch of weeds that only an immature teen-ager could plod through. If any of them think "this is where it's at," bless them and pity them. Even the director felt it needed an upbeat ending, but I give the youth generation more credit for seeing the truth of it, long before the final reel.

Display Of Arts, Crafts At Library In Westlake

The Daly City Recreation Division invites the public to view a display of arts and crafts projects which have been completed as part of the Spring Cultural Program.

Under the direction of Mrs. Beverly Reiser, students will display work in paper mache, ceramics, mosaics, and puppetry.

This creative exhibit will be on display at the Westlake Library, 275 Southgate, for the next two weeks.

The current summer arts and crafts program includes instruction in ceramics, drawing, paper mache, stitchery, and exploratory crafts.

All classes are held at the Art Center, 101 Peoria.

'Smoke Watchers' Holding Meets At Church, Hospital

Smoke Watchers are now holding regular weekly meetings every Monday at Westlake Lutheran Church, Westmoor Avenue and Avalon Drive, and every Wednesday at Mary's Help Hospital Auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Does it work? Withdrawal techniques based on 14 years of intensive research are explained to help members understand their habit; why they smoke and how to unlearn their habit over a period of time.

Smoke Watchers show the smoker how to stop, the easy way, and stay stopped — without adverse effects.

Persons interested in joining the success of Smoke Watchers members who have stopped smoking are invited to attend the organization's meetings. For further information contact Sid Lipton at 778 St. Francis Boulevard, Daly City.

Girl Scouts Set For Benefit Flea Market July 11 In D.C.

"We'll be open to the public at 10 a.m. and will sell until 4 p.m." says Girl Scout Flea Market Chairman Mrs., Frederick Stewart. The affair, sponsored by the Daly City Girl Scout Association, will be in the Colma Intermediate multi-use room July 11.

Proceeds will provide funds to take the Latin Heritage students on field trips.

At present there are about 70 students learning the arts and culture of their native countries and improving their English.

The Latin Heritage Program in addition to aiding the students and their families provides summer jobs for 50 high school age tutors — a much needed contribution to the community.

Tutorial funds are furnished by OEO and NYC. Mrs. Julia Monares has been the force behind the development of the program and is the director.

Adult Girl Scouts who will be helping with the sale are Mrs. Stan Newman, Mrs. Stanley Rushton, Mrs. E. P. Hughes, Mrs. A. Mordokowicz, Mrs. James Scott, Mrs. Al Schwarzbach. Refreshments will be sold by Mrs. Gabriel Adami. Mrs. Wilson Fitzgerald, Mrs. John Kachur, and co-chairman Mrs. Alan Mori have been sorting and pricing the items.

Donations of used but resalable clothing, books, toys, and household items are needed and may be deposited at 707 Stoneyford Drive, Colma.

Pacifica, D.C. Girls Feted At Conclave

Pacifica and Daly City were awarded top honors at the recently-concluded 24th Grand Bethel convention of Job's Daughters, held at the Oakland Coliseum, when Kris Paymiller wasi nstalled as Grand Bethel Honored Queen and Fredrica Klemm Senior Princess.

Both girls are Past Honored Queens of their respective Bewas installed as Grand Bethel 348, Pacifica, and Miss Klemm of Bethel 198, Daly City.

The newly-installed leader of the state's 30,000 Job's Daughters members was a 1968 honor graduate of Terra Nova High School.

She is currently attending San Mateo College but will transfer to the Davis campus of the University of California this fall, where Miss Klemm is already a student.

Variety Of D.C. Youth Activities

The Daly City Recreation Division July 14-16 will sponsor a trip for the playgrounds to Lake Anza, located in the Berkeley Hills and maintained and operated by the East Bay Regional Park District.

The scheduled day's activities include swimming, a picnic lunch, and just plain relaxation and fun on the lake's sandy beach. Children interested in attending this activity should contact their local playground recreation leader for all the details.

Junior Teen Clubs will journey their way across the Bay to Marin Town & Country Club in Fairfax July 18. There the teens can enjoy such activities as swimming, basketball, softball, ping pong or tennis. Rounding off the day's activities will be a hot dog roast. The cost is $3. which covers transportation, insurance, admission and dinner.

On the Senior Teen Club calendar is a July 25 trip to the Marin Town and Country Club.

The cost for the day of fun and sun is $3. which covers the cost of transportation, admission, insurance and food.

The Jefferson High Teen Club, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division, will have a dance on July 10.

This summer dance will feature the "J.J. Mad" band from 8 to 11 p.m. Cost will be $1. at the door.

The following day, July 11, the Jeff High Teen Club members will spend the day at Montara Beach for a beach party, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

All those interested in going to Montara Beach should see their teen advisor or call the Daly City Recreation Office.

The Daly City Recreation Division through the cooperation of the Westlake Bowl, has an opportunity to offer local children between the ages of 8 and 12 the chance to learn bowling at no cost.

Two four-week programs, consisting of eight lessons and practice sessions, will be offered to children between eight and 12 years of age.

Each program will be limited to 100 children. All registration must be taken in advance. No transportation will be provided, and therefore, preference in registration will be given children with parental transportation to and from the Bowl.

The sessions will be at Westlake Bowl on Tuesday and Thursdays and Wednesdays and Fridays at 10 a.m. — beginning August 4 and ending August 28.

Children will be expected to attend all sessions in the program in which they enroll. However, each child may participate in only one of the two four-week programs. An instructor will be provided for every eight children. The lessons will be approximately from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

The purpose of this program is to teach children to bowl properly and interest them in an activity in which they can participate throughout their lives. Once again, there is no charge to the child or parent. The only requirement is that the children be at the Bowl at the specified time. Only the first 100 in each program will be able to participate, but others may be placed on an alternate list and contacted if openings arise.

Registration forms are now available at your local playground and must be turned in by July 24. For further information, contact Mickey Corso, Recreation Supervisor.

Formation of a Youth Leadership Course for teenagers to help them learn to communicate more effectively is being sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division with the aid of the Daly City Toastmasters International.

The class will be limited to 25 students. The course consists of eight.

This program is not a formal course in public speaking but a series of experiences such as anyone will encounter in an active life of community involvement.

NELL NORTON
Sugar 'n Spice

Last week's column contained two terrific recipes from Canada, Spaghetti and Greens and Beatrice's Casserole. However some of the directions were transposed and might cause some confusion, so we'll straighten out the lines now.

The Spaghetti and Greens recipe ended with . . . Serves 4.

Here is the casserole recipe with the directions in order. This recipe is especially easy to make, the ingredients are just layered into the dish, no cooking or browning ahead, and it's delicious.

BEATRICE'S CASSEROLE

3 cups diced potatoes
2 cups diced celery
1 pound ground beef
½ cup diced green pepper, optional
1 medium onion, diced
Salt and pepper to taste
1 one pound can tomatoes
(Bake in 350-degree oven about 1¼ hours)

In a 2-quart casserole place the three cups diced raw potatoes. Next the layer of diced celery, two cups. Break up and spread the pound of ground beef next, then the half cup diced green pepper and top with the diced onion. (I put a light sprinkle of salt and pepper on each layer.) Now pour the tomatoes over all. Cover and bake in 350-degree oven about 1¼ hours or until the vegetables are tender. Serves 6.

If you wish you may substitute a combination of tomato sauce and tomato juice instead of the canned tomatoes. Use eight ounces of each.

I'LL TAKE THE BLAME for not completely naming the fancy dessert last week. The whole name is Neapolitan Ice Cream Cake. The name describes the white cake base, chocolate filling and strawberry ice cream topping. Even tho' you didn't have the whole name, I hope you've tried the recipe, for it's delicious and very pretty.

JUST RECENTLY I've been reading and trying some recipes from the ACE Cookbook. Applied Culinary Education compiled by the Jefferson County Branch, Association for Childhood Education in Louisville, Kentucky.

We found this bread recipe delicious. It's very cake-like and the lemon glaze gives it a delicious flavor.

CANADIAN LEMON BREAD

¼ cup shortening
2 eggs, beaten
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup sugar
½ cup milk
Grated rind of one lemon
Juice of one lemon
¼ cup sugar
(Bake 350-degrees for 1 hour)

In a mixing bowl blend the half cup shortening and two beaten eggs. Sift together the half teaspoon salt, one and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon baking powder and cup sugar. Add to the egg mixture along with the half cup milk. Mix well. Stir in the grated lemon rind and pour into greased loaf pan. Bake in 350-degree oven for one hour.

Meantime combine the juice of one lemon with the fourth cup sugar and mix well. When you take the bread from the oven spoon the lemon glaze over the top so the juice will soak in as the cake cools. Cool completely and serve sliced thinly and buttered.

A great favorite in my family is chicken cooked as directed in the ACE Cookbook, Iron Skillet Fried Chicken.

This recipe calls for self-rising flour. Self-rising is all-purpose flour to which a leavening agent and salt has been added. In order to make your own, use your regular flour and add one teaspoon soda and one-half teaspoon salt to the one and one-half cups flour.

IRON SKILLET FRIED CHICKEN

1 frying chicken, cut-up
½ cup buttermilk
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon savory salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
1½ cups self-rising flour
(Bake in 350-degree oven for 30 minutes)

Combine the half cup buttermilk with the half teaspoon salt, fourth teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon savory salt and fourth teaspoon paprika. Place the pieces of chicken in the buttermilk and move chicken around so the milk and seasonings reach all parts.

Put the 1½ cups flour in a paper bag. Flour each piece separately and take gently from bag to hold the flour.

Fry 10 minutes in one-half inch hot grease, turning only once. Be Sure To Use An Iron Skillet. And don't crowd the chicken pieces as they brown. You'll have to brown some and remove them to a plate while you complete the browning.

When you've completed the browning return all the chicken to the iron skillet, (Crowd it all you want now.) and place the skillet in a 350-degree oven. No lid please. Bake for 30 minutes. Remove from oven (watch out for that hot handle!) and drain the chicken on paper towels. It's great!

A Court Of Honor By Foxridge Cubs

Last week Foxridge PTA Troop 247 presented their second Court of Honor.

The program began with slides of a Camporee on San Bruno Mountain, where the troop picked up two special awards for fire-starting, and log-rolling, plus three second and third place awards, which placed "247" third overall, out of all the Troops participating.

Slides were also shown on a recent Campout at Lake Simotas (a private lake in Lake County, named after Scoutmaster Gerry Simotas), and the booth at Scout-A-Rama.

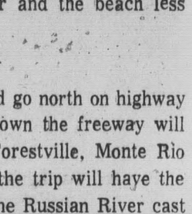
The ceremonies were started by Senior Patrol Leader Ronny Rickman, who introduced Troop Chairman Jim Rickrode, who announced summer activities, and received the treasurer's report from Assistant Scoutmaster Sam Sabin.

Awards were presented by Scoutmaster Jerry Simotas, and Assistant Scoutmaster Ron Rickman.

A First Class Badge to Jose Rector, Second Class Badges to Ronny Rickman, Corey Rick Ronny Rickman, Corey Rickgri, and Tenderfoot Badges to John Tavernas and Bob Hubbard.

THE POST'S Family Forum

Louanne Heath's Datebook



IT DOSEN'T TAKE THE YOUNGER generation long to tire of summer vacation! Riding bikes around the neighborhood, going swimming and visiting the local recreation center pale fast and then it is up to the moms to figure out ways of keeping the offspring happy.

The ironing doesn't take as long when there are no school clothes to "do up" but the extra time garnered from laundry room chores fails to compensate for the additional hours spent settling sibling disagreements and devising diversions aimed at keeping everyone happy and active.

Should you be an average driver and if your children are old enough to enjoy an adventuresome ride with a picnic and a romp at the beach midway through the jaunt, perhaps you would like to plan a day outing with your children. Maybe you would like to include a neighbor and her children.

Fix dinner the day before so you won't have to rush home, gather up everyone's bathing gear, pack a lunch and set off across the Golden Gate bridge for a day that will include nice scenery, some back country exploring, a dollop of history, a sandy beach, and probably a little wind and fog, in toto, a relaxing day for mom and an exciting trip for the kids.

While some trips are better when planned for days when the man of the house is about, this excursion to Goat Rock is best done midweek when the traffic is lighter and the beach less crowded.

FOR THIS JAUNT, leave around 9 and go north on highway 101 to Santa Rosa. At the north end of town the freeway will intersect with highway 116 for Fulton, Forestville, Monte Rio and Guerneville. This particular part of the trip will have the worst traffic as most vacationers along the Russian River cast away "citified" cares such as pedestrian rights and traffic regulations and tend to wander about in the road oblivious of cars. Since the scenery is very nice it isn't difficult for motorists to adjust to the slower driving speed required for such conditions.

It is nice and the trees cool and shady but the crowds along the river during July and August should discourage you from pausing on this part of the trip.

Continue on past Guerneville toward the coast but keep a sharp eye so you won't go by the Cazadero turn for you are about to treat the kids to some exploring. The scenery along he Cazadero road, which runs beside the oft dammed Austin Creek is beautiful. Scenery or not the kids will have been in the car over two hours now and the restive energy will be building up so it is time to get off the beaten track. Tell the kids to keep their eyes open for an old road leading off to the left. They'll spot it shortly after you pass the Boy Scout Camp at Royaneh! Check the faded sign and if it reads Old Fort Ross Road you are on the right track.

THE BEAUTY about this road is that it winds through the woods in such a way that most youngsters will feel they are adventuring down a deserted thoroughfare, miles from anyone. Cars are a rarity and you feel alone but actually there are numerous farms and summer homes and the lady motorist is never more than a few minutes from help should car trouble develop.

The road is winding and narrow but it is paved and well maintained. The curves are numerous, (pass out the motion sickness pills before you leave Royaneh), but none are of the hairpin variety so if she has any experience in mountain driving the lady behind the wheel should not be concerned. If your children are anything like mine (they range from teenage down to six months), they delight in teasing about possible disasters, which will befall them, simply because their mother, and not their father, is behind the wheel. Compound that type of humor with a strange back road and the kids have all kinds of fun and excitement on this type of ride.

The road is short. In about six miles you'll come over the crest of the mountain and look down into Fort Ross and on over it to the ocean.

Stop in the fort for a look into our state's history, and to let the kids run off some of that pentup energy before you turn down the coast for Jenner, just eleven miles away. At the service station the south side of Jenner the beach is visible fut picnickers have to drive another half a mile to the park entrance.

Goat Rock park is a sandy stretch of land with roads that lead down to several camp and picnic area. On our outings we kept taking the roads that lead off to the right and finally came down onto the spit of land that projects back across the river mouth to a point opposite Jenner. Here you can find barbeque pits only a few feet from the parking area and you can cook hotdogs or roast marshmallows in the lee of the sand dunes which divide the picnicers from the waders. There are no grates on the pits so take sticks to roast weiners or bring your own stove, be sure you bring charcoal for the beach is almost totally bare of drift wood.

IT IS A WONDERFUL SPOT to take your leisure while the children sunbathe, build sand castles or hunt seashells. Allow yourself about two and a half hours for the return trip, but, in the meantime just savor the change of scene and respite from home routine!

Coming home you can return to Jenner and take highway 116 back to Santa Rosa and union with highway 101 or you can continue down the coast to Point Reyes, where you may turn inland to join 101 near Novato. Either way, the trip home will be less than three hours.

Happy exploring!

At Skyline: 'Roses' And 'Hay Fever'

Noel Coward's hilarious comedy "Hay Fever" and the 1965 Pulitzer Prize winning play "The Subject Was Roses" by Frank Gilroy are Skyline College Drama Department summer offerings.

The Coward show, a huge hit in both England and America will open the two part season on July 16, 17, 18, 23, 24, and 25th — curtain at 8 p.m. The show directed by Richard Rohrbacher will feature Pat Donohue as Judith; Jan Downing as Sorel; Phil Carrubba as Simon and Declan Murray as David—all are members of the wildly and wonderfully kooky family — the Bliss. Others in the show include Laurie Palmer, Richard Battaglia, Sharon McVeigh, Tom Holinder and Shirley Light.

The second show is "The Subject Was Roses" by Frank Gilroy; also a popular worldwide hit. On Broadway it starred Jack Albertson, Irene Dailey and Martin Sheen. The movie version in 1967 starred Albertson and Sheen but replaced Miss Dailey with Patricia O'Neal.

Skyline's presentation of "The Subject Was Roses" will open July 30 and play Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights for two consecutive weeks. "Roses" will be directed by Josephine Cuerpo.

Bob Bookbinder of South San Francisco will play the tough and callous John Cleary. The roles of Nettie and Tommy Cleary have been double-cast. Diana Stone of Daly City and Bobbie DeWeese of South San Francisco are filled in the role of the doting mother, Nettie. Ross Libonati and Val Molkenbuhr III, both of Pacifica play the G.I. who returns home from the war to find it hasn't changed for the better.

A 'Witness' Conclave No Small Task

Frank Malaspina of San Francisco, a veteran convention worker with 30 years experience, has been called to Watchtower Convention Headquarters in Oakland to help with the "Men of Goodwill" District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Over 30,000 delegates are expected for the conference scheduled for July 16-19 in the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum.

He has been given oversight of the Food Receiving Department. A staff of 15 volunteer workers will help him in expediting all foods purchased for the refreshment stands.

"This is no small job," Malaspina volunteered, "especially considering such purchases as 18,000 pounds of beef, 20,000 hot dogs, 30 tons of melons and other fresh fruits, 6,000 cases of soft drinks, 8,000 dozens of hamburger and hot dog buns and 200,000 paper napkins, to name just a few."

In addition to his administrative duties, Malaspina will have a part in Saturday evening's program. He will be directing a cast of 14 members in a one and one-half hour drama entitled "Who Needs Your Help?". The drama will emphasize the need of parents to help their children combat the pressures of our modern-day permissive society with its casual approach to moral aberrrations.

Malaspina has been actively associated with Jehovah's Witnesses for the past 30 years. During that time he has represented the Watchtower Society in special capacities in Italy, Malta, North Africa and Brazil. He is currently assigned as a circuit supervisor of 17 congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses in the greater San Francisco area and down the Peninsula to Half Moon Bay.

His fiance, Miss Ann Umsted, 21, of Chico, was a passenger in the car. She was taken by ambulance to Community Hospital, and said to be suffering minor injuries.

The first, according to the Rev. Trenton R. Ferro, pastor at First, will go to the Good Shepherd Home of the West in Terra Bella to assist the retarded children there.

The second will be to give assistance to the "Firth Family Bus Fund" which will enable the Firth's to purchase a bus that is suitable for transporting both their boys who are brilliant children, but badly crippled by Muscular Dystrophy.

This has been a community project in South San Francisco, but fell short of the goal. This endeavor from the VBS will enable the children to help others close by and also far away.

Unexpected Hike In County Assessment Roll Is Told

New industrial and commercial construction has caused an unpredicted surge in the assessment roll this year, Assessor Jack Estes has reported.

The 1970 assessments, minus the utility roll, total $1.8 billion, an increase of 4.87 per cent which is considerably higher than Estes' earlier prediction of a 1½ per cent increase.

Average annual increase in the San Mateo County assessment roll has been from 5 to 8 per cent, and last year's growth was 8.91 per cent, Estes said.

It was good news for the County's taxpayers since the unexpected increase will offset the composite tax rate for schools and the junior college, city and couny government, and special districts.

In addition, Estes revealed that review of residential areas has been light this year because the market is "soft". Unless the market picks up, Estes said, he doesn't expect his office to be doing much review of residential assessments during 1971 either.

Half Moon Bay led the County's 18 cities in racking up the greatest percentage increase.

Next in percentage growth were Pacifica, Menlo Park, and Burlingame.

The increase in the central Coast area came from review of agricultural acreage north and east of Half Moon Bay and from new home building in the city, Estes said.

The hike in Pacifica was due to residential development. In Menlo Park it was primarily new commercial and industrial development, while in San Mateo, Belmont, and San Carlos increases came from a review of apartments.

Estes said his office had also spent the year reviewing all motels and mobile home parks in the County.

In 1971 he hopes to finish reviewing apartments and start a review of industrial land in Burlingame and Millbrae, he said.

The percentage increases by city are as follows:

Atherton, $42,109,610, up 1.19 per cent; Belnont, $58,019,848, up 3.55 per cent; Brisbane, $7,788,108, up 2.42 per cent; Burlingame, $96,099,574, up 4.44 per cent; Colma, $2,261,715, up 3.76 per cent; Daly City, $124,981,032, up 3.46 per cent; Half Moon Bay, $9,360,780, up 11.48 per cent; Hillsborough, $55,081,481, up 1.98 per cent; Menlo Park, $101,689,410, up 5.60 per cent; Millbrae, $57,854,130, up 2.51 per cent; Pacifica, $58,333,114, up 5.76 per cent; Portola Valley, $17,912,798, up 3.24 per cent; Redwood City, $145,418,130, up 3.59 per cent; San Bruno, $66,161,952, up 1.99 per cent; San Carlos, $83,895,671, up 3.33 per cent; San Mateo, $216,557,232, up 2.57 per cent; South San Francisco, $140,231,245, up 3.48 per cent, and Woodside, $27,486,220, up 2.06 per cent.

San Mateo led all other cities in the largest dollar gain, $5.4 million over 1969 with Menlo Park and Redwood City ranking right behind with $5.3 million and $5 million. Burlingame's increase was $4 million.

Largest North County increases were South San Francisco with a $4.7 million gain over 1969; Daly City with $4.1 million; and Pacifica with $3.1 million.

The unseeured roll which includes assessments on all personal property at San Francisco International Airport totalled $279,401,372, a 14.31 per cent increase over 1969.

NROTC Tells Scholarship Competition

The 25th annual national competition for the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps (NROTC) College Scholarship Program has commenced according to recruiters in San Bruno.

The NROTC College Scholarship Program prepares a young man for a Navy or Marine Corps commission while he is studying at one of the many civilian colleges and universities where NROTC Units are established. All tuition, fees, uniforms ,and books are frunished by the Navy, and the student receives $50 per month subsistence allowance for four years. During the summers between academic years, the student participates in interesting at-sea training periods as a Midshipman. After successfully completing a baccalaureate level college course and all military requirements, he is commissioned in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps.

Applicants for this program will be considered based on scores obtained on either the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) of the College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB), Princeton, New Jersey or the American College Test (ACT) of the American College Testing Program, Iowa City, Iowa, in lieu of the Navy College Aptitude Test (NCAT) previously utilized.

Questionnaires Being Sent Households In San Bruno

A questionnaire will be sent to 2,000 San Bruno households from the San Bruno Chamber of Commerce.

The three-page questionnaire asks residents to answer questions concerning retail trade in San Bruno.

The purpose is to find out what the major complaints shoppers have, what they like, what they would like to see improved, how the five San Bruno shopping areas compare with other cities, and what needs to be given first priority.

"The customer is the most important person in any business," Chamber Retail Trade Analysis Chairman Jack Head said. "A customer is not dependent on us, we are dependent on him. This survey will point the way so we may be able to improve business."

Head noted that business in San Bruno contributes $784,000 to the city, not counting taxes derived from property or miscellanous taxes such as permits. He presented the following business contribution breakdown to the city:

Business License	$68,000
Sales Tax	$289,000
Auto Sales Tax	$250,000
Alcohol Tax	$9,000
Motel Tax	$12,000
Tobacco Tax	$120,000
Garbage Fran.	$5,000
P.G.&E. Fran.	$31,000

"Whes we talk about strengthening the tax base and relieving the home owner, we should talk about how we can increase business in our city, how can we help our business districts, how can we promote commerce and attract industry and business into San Bruno," Mr. Head stated. "We hope the three page questionnaire we will soon mail to 2,000 San Bruno housholds will be of help to both the businessman and the consumer, and the taxpayer."

Money Still Needed For Portola Park

Looks as though San Bruno Portola Highlands residents will have to come up with some method of helping to finance a park in their area after all.

That item pointed out by Mayor Neil Christal as possibly not being counterbalanced on the other side of the city budget ledger was in fact placed in the "available cash balance" category.

At a recent budget session Christal indicated that an item in the capital improvement fund expenditures of $52,600 (the amount of the Crestmoor Canyon acquisition) may mistakenly not have been counterbalanced on the capital improvement receipt of the ledger.

Had this been the case the city could have put out the estimated $11,000 for the park and still been some $40,000 ahead.

However, a check by Finance Officer Robert Bodeman shows the available cash balance of $309,755 includes $44,900 from Consolidated Lands, Inc., under the Crestmoor Park liquidation agreement.

Consolidated also turned over to the city the use of $7,610 in lot fees paid to the city in past years to build the Crestmoor Park Community Center proposed in 1958, according to Bodeman.

The city still has budgeted $3,000 this year toward construction of the park.

THE SHADOW KNOWS—That some very unhappy folks are talking about padlocking the Cow Palace and throwing away the key. Sound phony? You better listen to the reasons behind the talk. Seems the State does not carry fire insurance on any of its buildings. And so when the Flea Market burned itself out of existence, along with several exhibit halls around the main structure, the district experienced a capital loss of some $400,000.

NOW the Cow Palace is the only agricultural district (of the State's 71 such districts) that is operating in the black—it's making money.

Matter of fact the CP has a nest egg of some $250,000 that the nine-member board of directors was thinking about re-investing into modifications at the complex to keep it competitive with Oakland's Coliseum, not to mention that sports thing San Francisco is building downtown in the Yuerba Buena project.

But the powers-that-be in Sacramento, in their infinite wisdom, informed the Cow Palace board to use the surplus funds in rebuilding the exhibit halls for the Grand National (October) and the Sports and Boat Show (January). The latter has already booked the building. To add insult to injury, the board was further informed that if they did not like this ruling they could expend $1 to purchase a padlock. Now the only question is: Where can you buy a decent padlock for $1?

GOOD NEIGHBOR FRANK — Frank Monte, Daly City businessman, wanted to be a good neighbor. And so, when he spotted the garage door of the Frank Spadarella residence open last week, he went over to close it. Knowing the Spadarellas were out of town for the holiday, Frank decided to check around to be sure the house hadn't been broken into. No sooner did he open a door than—you guessed it—off went the burglar alarm. It rang for more than two hours, until alarm experts could figure out how to turn it off.

JAMES GREALISH, who has been jousting with the county supervisors about the future of the County Harbor Commission, which he is a member of, has launched another frontal attack—this one concerning the closing of the Daly City courthouse. Grealish agrees with Mayor Bud Lycett that local taxpayers are paying too much for too little. Matter of fact, this tax-poor writer is beginning to wonder just what we're getting for our annual county tax bite??? On the other hand Mayor Lycett has made it clear what he thinks North County taxpayers are getting for their money, but his statements must remain unpublished.

NOT TRUE THOSE STORIES circulating that former South San Francisco and currently Brisbane city manager Gene Aiello will take over the managership of San Bruno (vacated by the resignation of Jerry Gerard Vergeer) of any other city manager's post for that matter—at this time. "I'm not an applicant—not now anyway," Aiello said.

SPEAKING OF FORMER city managers — Edward Frank, Daly City's former manager, is still receiving the modest sum of $100 per month as a retainer to the city. And he's "well worth" every nickel, City Manager David Rowe and the council agree. One of Frank's duties is to push through myriad matters that seem to bog down in Sacramento and other political bogs. "It's like money in our pocket to have Frank track these things down for the city," one official recently remarked.

THE FOURTH SEEMED more like Halloween to us. Vandals take every opportunity to do their thing. Some idiots doused a palm tree at the War Memorial Building with gasoline and set it off with a firecracker. Very sick.

The Fourth is supposed to be one gala birthday party honoring our nation. Perhaps patriotism is a "dirty" word to many people today, but not to this writer and those thousands upon thousands of Americans who attended "Honor U.S.A." celebrations across the country.

That Washington, D.C., event featuring many celebrities was a healthy sign.

An unhealthy sign was the resurgence of so-called "salutes" or firecrackers (everybody start yelling "spoil sport"). First the noisy things are illegal and second they're dangerous. Doctors in the area were kept hopping over the Fourth trying to repair damaged eyes on kids who had the misfortune to learn what their elders had known all along—explosives are bad for your health.

WHY DOES SOUTH CITY'S Frank Bertucelli keep pushing garbage incineration for the county? Does he know something about this system that has stumped the experts in the entire country? Fact is: There is no incineration system in existence that completely meets the needs of the modern community. And if, per chance, there is one such system how about sharing the secret?

FORMER SAN BRUNO Councilman George Ingham returned home from his Pebble Beach vacation last week to find his house cleaned out to the tune of some $1,100 — everything from stereo equipment to jewelry . . . And speaking of Bruno, a recent headline in that city's news weekly warned citizens of dog packs running wild in the city park. The statement that "Leash laws do not necessary hold" is a classic. What the person who made the statement wants, according to the hardhitting article, is for San Bruno's finest to start enforcing the city's leash law and act as dog catchers for a day. Is this another case of not getting county (dog catching) services for our hard earned buck? Time will tell.

S.S.F Chief's Worry

Vacation Time Prompts Crime

By BOB PETERSON
Post-Times Writer

With the advent of summer vacation and the resultant vacancy of many dwellings, an increase in thefts and burglaries can be anticipated.

So said South San Francisco Police Chief Sal Rosano in pointing out that many of these incidents are "based on a growing need (mostly of juveniles) to obtain funds for the purchase of drugs."

According to Chief Rosano, 85 residential dwellings in South San Francisco have been burglarized since the first of the year.

During this same period the South San Francisco Police Department has made 50 arrest of persons charged with burglary, and 32 of the 50 were under the age of 18.

"Preventing residential burglaries is largely the responsibility of the homeowner and apartment dweller," said Chief Rosano.

"The successful apprehension and prosecution of those responsible for these acts lies with each citizen who should feel it his duty to contact the police department if a suspicious person or vehicle is observed in any neighborhood," stressed the chief.

He said the police department has prepared a burglary warning list for distribution throughout the residential areas of the city.

"By following the suggestions and assisting this department, each member of the community will be going a great deal to reduce this increase in crime," said Chief Rosano.

'Practical Politics'

JAMES HALLEY

Post-Times Columnist

For years, the Supreme Court of the United States avoided apportionment questions, declaring it was not going to get involved in the political thicket. In 1962, it cast caution aside and in Baker vs. Carr declared that the equal protection clause of the Federal Constitution made legislative apportionment a proper subject for judicial review. In 1964, the doctrine of Reynolds vs. Sims declared the one man, one vote principle, and the courts of the land have been enmeshed in the thicket and thrashing about in the brambles ever since. The decision of the judicial branch to become involved in what had been previously reserved to legislatures and politics has changed the face of our nation and will continue to do so.

The Cout was concerned with principle and properly ignored direct political effect of this kind of decision. For as with thickets generally, it was difficult to say ahead of time just what thorns were going to draw blood and whose blood would be spilled.

The effect of the apportionment decisions has been far different from that anticipated by pundits at the time the original decisions were announced. Democrats, heavily involved in metropolitan areas, were expected to make great gains. But in real life, suburbia and Republicans came out ahead in the 1966 and '68 elections.

Once the idea that purely political rights were entitled to equal protection really took hold, problems abounded. From Congress right down to the local level, sweeping consequences have resulted from the application of the equal protection clause to politics.

The most recent illustration is the decision of the California Supreme Court affecting local bonds. For years, we have had a constitutional provision requiring a two-thirds vote on city, county and school district general obligation bonds. But, the court was asked, why should the vote of a person against a bond issue be more valuable than that of another in favor of the same issue?

In a landmark decision, our Court invalidated this provision of the State constitution. In doing this, it acknowledged that only four states required a two-thirds vote, and considered the degree of fiscal security in California as compared with states that had a simple majority rule. It also took a look at the growing list of alternative financing devices by which municipal governments have avoided the two-thirds requirement. These include lease purchase plans, joint powers authority bonds and revenue bonds.

In other words, the Court was not only concerned with legal and philosophic but also with very practical considerations. In enunciating its decision in this manner, it anticipates that the economy of the State will not be upset by this changed requirement.

Actually, the court's confidence is probably well placed, but for reasons in addition to the purely economic.

From now on, 50 per cent plus 1 vote is all that will be needed in order to pass a general obligation bond issue. On the face of things, this would seem to favor local administrations and bonds. Will it really? Only time and public reaction will tell the story, but it seems that practical politics may again surprise early soothsayers. Just as the effect of legislative apportionment confounded the political pundits, the change in bond elections may amaze those who look on this altered mechanical rule as an instrument to ease public financing.

Up to now, bond elections have largely been one-sided. Those in favor of a bond issue often stir up quite a campaign. But opponents have relied mainly upon one or two big names and occasional newspaper opposition, plus the natural tendency of some voters to vote no on everything that costs money. However, this will no longer be so. Bond elections will now become bilateral campaigns with substantial time and money being spent on both sides of the issue. Chances are that about the same number of bond issues will pass, but after much more noisy and contentious campaigns.

That It Waves . . .

SAMUEL CHANDLER

Daly City Librarian

Hats off!
Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums,
A flash of color beneath the sky:
Hats off!
The flag is passing by!
—Bennett

IN THIS MONTH of the Fourth of July, it is time to reflect that the flag stands for the hopes of America, however short falls her current performance; That it waves today as much as ever to remind us of the pledge of the Constitution of the United States to "form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare and secure the Blessings of Liberty . . ."

"Blue and crimson and white it shines . . .
Sign of a nation, great and strong,
To ward her people from foreign wrong
Pride and glory and honor, all
Live in the colors to stand for all."

The flag waves to remind us that in this country justice is achieved by the elimination of prejudices that breed inequality. To maintain equality is the responsibility of an individual as well as an official of the government. Justice is embodied in Brimhall's prayer — "Help me to know that my rights turn in where others begin" and in Burke's statement that justice cannot live on the misfortunes and pains of others.

"Days of plenty and years of peace
March a strong land's swift increase:
Equal justice, right and law,
Stately honor and reverent awe."

The flag waves, in spite of those people who practice racism and in spite of the horrors of the War, to remind us that America is a democracy. Its citizens have the right of choice which means they may select the course of their lives as their circumstances and their individual fortitude direct without government control. They have the right to assemble, to petition the authorities, to speak up even against the government

TO PARAPHRASE W.N. WEST, who wrote The American People, "This democracy has disadvantages Action is slow, and often controlled by ignorance or by petty neighborhood jealousies, but it gives a constant and unrivaled training in politics to the whole people. Thomas Jefferson called the New England town meeting — mother of American democracy — the best school of political liberty the world ever saw."

The flag should remind us that it is a citizen's right, indeed responsibility, to carry his thoughts to city councils, school boards and commissions, and to write his congressmen, his senators and assemblymen.

The right to speak out is a freedom that Americans may lose if they do not use it and use it with wisdom. Writing in Newsweek magazine, Richard Hofstader said, "One of America's outstanding characteristics is that for a society that is in so much trouble, and has so many reasons for agitation on war and racial justice, it has remarkably little repressive apparatus and is remarkably open to peaceful dissent."

"Those who yell about repression," he continues, "and try to tell us that America is already Fascist simply have no idea of what they are talking about."

HOWEVER, Hofstadter reminds us that we have good reason for anxiety. Repression comes from lethargy on the part of citizens and from inefficiency on the part of officials in handling certain kinds of problems.

Which leads to the conclusion that Americans need more education on how to use their freedoms and more appreciation for the government that secures them. Al Capp, the creator of Lil' Abner, wrote, "We should cherish our right to dissent and not distort it even when it dissents with us."

CHESS PLAYERS of all ages attended the Fourth Annual Open Air Chess Festival held at San Bruno City Park on July 4. Over 200 players, from as far as Utah, attended the event, sponsored by the San Bruno Chamber of Commerce. In the United States Chess Federation section, winners were Sinisa Katanic of San Francisco, section A; Frank M. Hamaker of Palo Alto, section B; Dr. Chester Offenbach of San Francisco and Chester Jones of San Jose tied for section C; Matthew Sullivan of San Jose and Peter Lew of San Francisco tied in the junior category. Winner of the Rapid Transit Tournament was Wade Hendricks of South San Francisco. Two chess clubs tied for the attendance record: the San Francisco Bank of America Chess Club and the Daly City Chess Club.

'Change For Sake Of Change Never Healthy'

LE PACINI

Sportscripts

"We could have traded, but what's the use trading bodies when the body you get is no better than the body you gave? Change for the sake of change is never healthy. Not in this business."

You'll never guess who said that. We'll give you a hint. It was said at the baseball trading deadline date by an official of a team which made no trades and whose only moved consisted of a little shuffling of farm club players. Further hint: and who, during the winter, traded bodies for bodies.

You guessed it. It was Giant official Jerry Donovan.

Now, we're not saying the Giants should or even could have made trades, either at the recent deadline date or during the winter. What we're denying is the hypocrisy of Donovan's statement, for as we mentioned in a column a couple of months ago, the Giants made trades during the winter which didn't help anybody . . . themselves or the teams with whom they traded (with one or two possible exceptions, to be mentioned a few paragraphs hence.)

AS STEADY READERS of this column know, we have in the past always defended Giant trades (with the exception of Cepeda for Sadecki), and have even goen so far as to call Horace Stoneham a good trader, which we still think he is. It would take a couple of columns to cite his beneficial trades, but for a couple of examples:

He traded a young Bill White for vet pitcher Sam Jones, and White went on to become a star while Jones was retired a few years later. But what most fans forget is that the G i a n t s had Cepeda for Sadecki), and have even gone so far as to call a pretty fair first sacker already — Orlando Cepeda — and that he, and Sam Jones as a stopper, almost won pennants for the Giants in '59 and '60. And then there was the one which sent pitcher Eddie Fisher (who became a White Sox star), Dom Zanni (who's he?) and first baseman Bob Farley (who's HE?) to the Chisox for Don Larsen and Billy Pierce. Without the latter two, the Giants couldn't have won their only pennant in San Francisco.

Of more recent vintage, there was the Cap Peterson (now in the minors) and Bob Priddy (barely hanging on with Atlanta) for Mike McCormick trade, and all McCormick did the first year he was back with the Giansts was win the Cy Young Award.

And, you can go on and name all of the former Giants now stars on other teams, and we ould go on and name a lot of players who now star on teams other than their original.

BUT WE HAVE DIGRESSED from our original point, which was that the Giants DID trade bodies for bodies this winter in what could have been a sincere if inept attempt to bolster the club, but which was probably the time-honored technique-which we pointed out last November-of throwing up a smoke screen of activity to make the paying customers think something was happening and to disguise the futility of it all. We are cynical for the very reason, which we outlined above, that the Giants have almost always been shrewd traders, and we therefore just don't believe that they could have been so bad this year without meaning to be.

Think about it. They gave up pitchers Bob Bolin, Ron Herbel, and Ray Sadecki. Sadecki, one of those exceptions we've mentioned, is having a surprisingly good year with the Mets, but Bolin is losing with as much ease with Milwaukee as he did with the Giants.

And while Herbel is having a steady if unspectacular year, it's only becauwe he's needed in San Diego and is therefore pitching often enough to be steady. He wasn't needed in San Francisco, so therefore never had the chance to pitch.

They traded away catcher Bob Barton, a good part-time receiver who hit around .240 for them. Now he's a good part-time receiver with San Diego, hitting around .240.

They gave up third baseman Bobby Etheridge, who played little for them. He's now playing more for his current team, but it's in the minors.

They picked up pitcher Frank Reberger, who allows almost as many runs as there are innings in a game. They got Bobby Heise, who shows flashes of mediocrity when he does his utility bits in the infield. And they got outfielder Steve Whitaker, who now hits a long ball once in a while in Phoenix.

As Donovan said, that kind of trading is never healthy, not in this business.

WE'VE FINALLY GOTTEN around to reading those "scandalous" excerpts from Jim Bouton's poor man's version of "Confidential Magazine," and we're glad we did, because it saved us the silly expense of buying the book.

Perhaps we've become jaded from having had too many associations with professional baseball players, but frankly, there wasn't a thing in the excerpts which shocked us (and the excerpts were supposed to be the most spectacular portions of the book), and, as a matter of fact, there wasn't an activity described by Bouton which we have never heard of, nor which in our estimation is beneath the dignity of any normal male, professional athlete or grocery clerk.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn made a big mistake in calling Bouton to task for his book. All it did was give Bouton's catty little disclosures undeserving publiety and status.

We don't believe there's a thing in the book which could possibly damage baseball, unless there's something in the un-excerpted sections which proves that the reserve clause is unconstitutional.

And besides all of that, Bouton isn't much of a writer.

THIS IS A LITTLE LATE, but when Bob Lemon was named to replace Charlie Metro as manager of the Kansas City Royals back on June 9, Lemon made as pithy a comment on the vagaries of managing as we've ever read. Said Lemon, "I'll want the pitchers to keep the ball down. I'll hope the hitters hit when we need hits. But that was what Charlie wanted, wasn't it?"

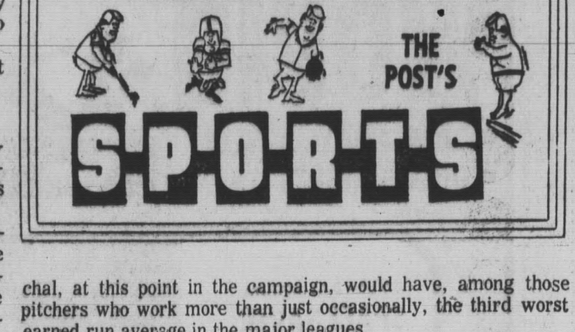
IF YOU'RE ONE of those never-say-die fight fans who refuses to believe that America has lost it's grip as the world's fight capitol, we hope you've reviewed the list of champions recently. Of the 10 official weightclwsses (that includes junior welters and junior lightweights), Americans are holders of just two titles-the heavyweight and lightheavy.

Tell the truth, Have you ever heard of Nicoliio Loche, Hiroshi Kobayashi or Chartcahi Chinoi They're all champs, folks.

MISCELLANY: Who would have thought that Juan Marichal, at this point in the campaign, would have, among those pitchers who work more than just occasionally, the third worst earned run average in the major leagues.



One of our readers (our father, actually), has a unique idea. He says why not reverse the idea that's currently making the rounds of just telling a batter to take first base, instead of going through the ritual of throwing four wide ones, when a team wishes to walk him intentionally. He feels that the intentional base on balls should be eliminated. When pitchers really want to walk a batter, they can usually do it (right, Willie McCovey?) without having to throw the four deliberate balls to a catcher bouncing out of the batter's box.

This wouldn't save time (which is the main thinking behind the idea of an automatic issuance of the base), but as reader-father points out, it would give sluggers like McCovey at least a gambler's chance of accidently getting something to hit. It could also produce balks, wild pitchers, passed balls, anything could happen.

Of course, you may take the position that hitters are being given enough as it is, that games are wide enough open. But as we said, it's a unique idea and a lot more sensible than a lot of others floating around these days (designated pinch hitters, etc.)

We hope you're not one of those poor optimists who thinks Cincinnati hitting will be slowed by a bigger stadium. True, they may not hit as many homeruns (although guys like Bench, Perez, May, Carbo, et al, rarely get cheap homers, anyway), but the fast Astroturf will probably give them more singles and doubles, which means that there will be more men on base when they do hit the homers. Result: probably no reduction in run production.

Terra Nova's Mike Rawlings, the great young catcher who was the area's only contribution to the recent North-South all star prep game played in Anaheim, went hitless in the game (0-2), which was no disgrace since his side got only four bingles. But he wsa the starting catcher on the inning side, stole a base and scored a run. All in all it as a performance which well represented the old neighborhood.

AND FINALLY, our best wishes to an always good interviewee (if there is such a word), Eddei Mulligan. The longtime president of the California League is recuperating in his Millbrae home after major surgery.

North, Nationals Triumph

All-Star Action In Daly City

In the annual fifth grade All-Star game at Westlake Park sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division, the North defeated the South, 11-10, in an action-packed thriller.

In the bottom of the first the South, on singles by Tim Howard, Bob Rodriquez, Tim Maples and Mark Renz, exploded for five runs.

The North came back with runs in the second, third, and fourth innings on hits by Mario Denning, Rich Mazzueco, Dennis Murphy, Mike Musich, and Ed Migale to tie the score, 5-5.

The South in their half of the fourth scored to take a 6-5 lead. However, led by the timely hitting of Jeff Arnold and Brian Michelson, the North scored three runs in the fifth to lead, 8-5. But, in their half of the fifth, the South scored four run on singles by Scott Kimbal, and Kevin Chase to regain the lead at 10-8.

The National Division All-Stars behind the strikeout pitching of Steve Pardini defeated the American Division All-Stars, 9-3, in the Annual Sixth Grade All-Star game at Westlake Park sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division.

In the second inning, the Nationsls, scored the game's first run on a single by Mike Adami and a booming triple by Gary Cassiglio. The National scored again in third to lead, 20.

The American All-Stars came to life in the fifth inning. Taking full advantage of National errors and walks and on the hitting of Jimmy Pedersen scored three runs to take a 3-2 lead. However, in the sixth inning, the Nationals combined the hitting of Ron Sylvia, Kevin Carew, and Rick Wyatt with American walks to score four times and regain the lead, 6-3, a lead they never gave up.

Steve Pardini pitched perfect baseball for three innings, striking out the first eight in a row. Called on to relieve in the fifth he struck out the three men he faced and ended an American rally.

The Seventh Grade All-Stars defeated the seventh Grade Champion Teamsters Bulldogs, 9-3, in the Annual Seventh Grade All-Star game at Westlake Park, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division. The champion Bulldogs, on a triple by Kevin Hampton and an All-Star error took a quick 1-0 lead in the first inning.

The All-Stars on a single by Carey Candau coupled with Bulldog walks scored three times to take a 3-1 lead.

The Bulldogs, on the base running of Gary Stipanich, scored to cut the lead to one, 3-2. But the All-Stars on singles by Bob Baptista, Don Pardin and Rick Lloren scored two more runs to lengthen the lead at 5-2. Economy, Flavor Teamed In Lamb

Today's markets offer a wide choice of meats for barbecuing. For economy meals, look beyond the traditional steaks and chops to an interesting variety of less expensive cuts of beef and lamb. Savory sauces and marinades give them flavor; marinating or partial precooking helps make them tender.

Economical cuts of beef which can be barbecued include: chuck fillets, flank steak, sirloin tips and bottom round. Inexpensive cuts of lamb include lamb shanks and riblets.

Suggested by Blue Bonnet Margarine kitchens for money-saving outdoor meals is Barbecued Lamb Shanks. The lamb shanks are parboiled until tender, then grilled with a zesty Texas style barbecue sauce. For convenience, all preparation can be done in advance. Just remove the lamb from the refrigerator about 20 minutes before grilling so it will be at room temperature.

BARBECUED LAMB SHANKS

- 4 lamb shanks (1-pound each)
- Flour
- ½ cup (1 stick) margarine
- 1 cup water (about)
- ⅓ cup chopped onion.
- 1 can (8-ounce) tomato sauce
- ¼ cup water
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper

Lightly dust lamb shanks with flour. In a large Dutch oven melt ¼ cup margarine over medium heat. Brown lamb shanks on all sides. Reduce heat. Gradually add 1 cup water. Cover and simmer about 1½ hours or until lamb is fork-tender. If necessary, add water during cooking to maintain simmering liquid. When shanks are fully cooked, remove from liquid and cool. Cover and refrigerate until ready to grill.

In a medium saucepan, melt remaining ¼ cup margarine. Add chopped onion and saute until tender. Stir in tomato sauce, ¼ cup water, sugar, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Bring mixture to a boil; reduce heat and simmer for 10 minutes. Cool slightly; chill until ready to use.

Remove lamb from refrigerator about 20 minutes before grilling. Cover each shank with barbecue sauce. Use any remaining sauce to moisten meat while grilling. Grill shanks over medium heat until thoroughly heated and crisp. Makes 4 servings.

Beef Ball Stew For Hearty Zest

Plump, juicy beef balls of ground chuck and a rainbow of garden fresh vegetables please both palate and eye. It's the California beef council version of Ratatouille, a freely formulated vegetable stew that originated along France's southern coast.

The heart and heft of the stew is the beef — in this case, well seasoned, pure beef balls quickly and easily oven baked. For the vegetables, select the freshest eggplant, onions, zucchini, green peppers and tomatoes to simmer in beef broth. And to keep those reds, greens and purples bright, don't overdo the cooking.

Because it looks so pretty and tastes wonderfully fresh and wholesome, this beef and vegetable medley is a great idea for party buffets.

California ground beef and a basic beef ball recipe are the beginning of many good things. Float beef balls in soups, or sauce them for pasta toppings. Bake them in casseroles or serve as is for hors d'oeuvres. Ground beef is as versatile as your imagination.

BEEF BALL STEW

- 1 eggplant
- 4 onions
- 2 minced cloves garlic
- ¼ cup cooking oil
- 1 (10½-ounce) can beef broth
- ½ teaspoon thyme
- 4 zucchini
- 5 tomatoes
- 2 green peppers
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper

Beat with fork to blend. Shape into 24 small balls. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 10 to 15 minutes.

Sirloin Is Special Cut For Kabobs

Kabobs, that delectable meat entree that broils on skewers, can be a do-it-yourself item involving the whole family. When the cubed beef and vegetables or fruits are made ready and presented, each member may build and broil his own dinner. Or the cook may elect to broil the vegetables on separate skewwers.

Sirloin steak is an ideal choice for broiling because it is an especially tender beef cut, explains Reba Staggs, a meat expert for the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

STEAK 'N MUSHROOM KABOBS

- 1 beef sirloin steak, cut 1½ inches thick
- 16 fresh mushrooms
- Small cooked potatoes
- Tomato wedges
- Green pepper squares
- Onion wedges
- French dressing
- 5 to 6 twelve-inch metal skewers

Remove bone and cut steak into twelve 1½-inch cubes. Thread 3 to 4 of the skewers alternately with beef cubes and mushrooms. Thread one skewer with small cooked potatoes and remaining skewer with tomato wedges, green pepper squares and onion wedges. Brush meat and vegetables with French dressing. Place on grill 3 to 5 inches from heat. Broil 8 minutes. Brush with French dressing and, turning occassionaly, broil 8 to 10 minutes or until browned. 3 to 4 servings.

Variety In Food Shops

About 23 cents of every dollar spent in the food store is for non-food purchases. Beauty aids, soaps, paper products, magazines, health aids, household gadgets and utensils, pet food and LP records are all purchased in the homemakers' favorite market.

Sales of non-food items have increased 140 per cent in the past 10 years while food sales have increased 51 per cent in that same period.

CHEAPER FOR TWO

During 1969 U.S. consumers spent approximately $104 billion for food, an average of about $512 per person. A single person, living alone, spent $812 each while food cost averaged only $495 per person for a two-or-more-person family.

Hot Salad Teams With Chilled Soup

Here's a new way to perk up summer appetites: Serve hot Baked Chef's Salad as your main dish, complement it with an icy gazpacho or jelled consomme, a pretty blueberry parfait for dessert, and you'll have an inviting summer meal.

Baked Chef's Salad can be served in individual casseroles for patio or indoor dining, and takes only a few minutes of cooking time. You start it on top of the stove and finish it in the oven. Warm, tart, and crunchy, it's a combination of frozen crinkle-cut French fries, julienne strips of ham, or luncheon meat, crisp celery and green onions, and shredded cheese topping.

The frozen crinkle-cut potatoes, which are cooked whole, form a pretty rick-rack among the pinks and greens of meat and vegetables. Besides looking pert and tasting delicious, frozen French fries save time. All the peeling and slicing has been taken care of. Simply take them out of the freezer and shake them into a fry pan.

BAKED CHEF'S SALAD

½ pound (carton or plastic bag) frozen crinkle-cut French fried potatoes
¼ cup cooking oil
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup cider vinegar
1-3 cup water
¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 cup finely sliced green onion
1 cup slivered cooked ham or luncheon meat
½ cup shredded pasteurized process American cheese

In a medium fry pan, cook potatoes in oil until tender and lightly browned. Remove potatoes and set aside. Blend mixture of flour, sugar and salt into oil in pan; stir in vinegar and water until smooth. Cook, stirring, until thickened. Mix in mayonnaise. Add celery, onion, meat and French fries; toss lightly to mix.

Pile salad in small individual casseroles; sprinkle with cheese. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes.

When the Baked Chef's Salad is ready, garnish it, if you like, with sliced tomatoes and hard-cooked eggs. Place the steaming casseroles on the table with a big icy bowl of gazpacho.

When you serve a hot salad and cold soup dinner, you'll want to have an encore ready. Make an easy, yet dramatic, finale of lemon sherbet parfait laced with canned blueberry pie

Tips On Selecting The Right Turkey

Buying turkeys has become so easy that anyone can do it. However, for the modern homemaker who wants to be knowledgeable in her buying, here are some pertinent facts:

The most important decision a homemaker has to make in buying a turkey is how much to buy.

If she wants to broil or fry it, she can buy the 4-to-9-pound roaster-fryer.

If she wants a small bird, 9-to-12-pound turkeys are for her, and may be roasted, stuffed or not.

If she has a good-sized group to feed, she can buy a turkey up to 24 pounds. The bigger the bird, the better the buy for there is a higher proportion of meat to bone on larger birds.

If she's a far-sighted homemaker, it makes sense (and cents) to buy a big bird to roast for one meal, then plan delicious turkey leftovers to take care of several more me (Packages of cooked me be frozen and used as for greater meal variety.)

When buying turkeys under 12 pounds, allow ¾ to 1 pound per serving (ready-to-cook weight).

When buying medium or heavy birds, 12 pounds and over, allow ½ to ¾ pound per serving.

Correct cooking and skillful carving can increase the number of servings in any given roast turkey.

Most birds are sold frozen, protected in snug vacuum-packed bags. Once defrosted, they are as fresh as the day they were packed. After proper thawing and cooking, many experts cannot tell whether the birds were once frozen or not.

All turkeys are government inspected for wholesomeness and so labeled.

Most birds carry a grade A shield. This is further assurance that the turkey is at peak perfection with excellent body bloom and possessing firm, smooth-grained meat.

In both preparation, cooking and meat yield, highest-grade birds give best results.

A Casserole That Cooks In An Hour

Quickie Chicken Casserole is one answer to the modern homemaker's seasonal problem of what to serve for dinner in less than an hour. It features popular flavors in an interesting new recipe — chicken breasts are cooked until tender, then baked atop stuffing with an easy, spicy gravy.

Accompaniments can be equally simple — a vegetable or two and a salad or raw vegetable relish dish. Just be sure you have a large potful of coffee — rich, fragrant and freshly brewed.

QUICKIE CHICKEN CASSEROLE

3 or 4 small chicken breasts, halved
1 package bread stuffing mix
1 can (10¾-oz.) chicken gravy
¼ cup canned tomato sauce
½ teaspoon dried parsley flakes
¼ teaspoon each dried rosemary and taragon
1 teaspoon instant minced onion

Cook chicken breasts in just enough water to cover until tender. Remove from broth and cool slightly. Remove bones and skin, keeping breast meat in one piece. Prepare stuffing mix as directed on package, using some of the broth as liquid. Spread in shallow baking dish. Arrange chicken breasts on top. Combine remaining ingredients. Pour over all. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Cut in squares to serve. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Turkey On Barbecue Rotisserie Provides Succulent Summer Fare

To give barbecued turkey a zesty flavor, marinate it in a basting sauce before mounting it on a spit for a succulent roasting over hot coals.

BARBECUED TURKEY

For using with a rotisserie, choose a turkey weighing from 12 to 14 pounds; larger turkeys may be barbecued in the oven. If turkey is fresh-frozen, thaw in plenty of time, rinse, pat dry, and marinate for several hours as follows:

Lay turkey on large sheet of wide, heavy-duty aluminum foil and form foil lightly around turkey. Pour marinade over turkey and completely wrap foil around turkey, sealing it securely so marinade will be held inside. Marinate in refrigerator for 2 to 4 hours, turning frequently so entire turkeyis well flavored with marinade.

MARINADE

1 pint lemon-flavored carbonated drink
½ cup cooking oil
¾ cup soy sauce
1 teaspoon lemon-peper
¼ teaspoon pepper sauce

Add garlic and spices to taste.

When time to barbecue, drain turkey well (saving marinade for basting). Tie wings securely to turkey with twine, tie drumsticks together or tuck them under band of skin on tail.

Insert spit rod in front of tail; run diagonally through breast bone. Fasten tightly with spit forks at both ends. Test carefully for balance and readjust until satisfactory. Insert meat thermometer into thickest part of breast or thingh. Place drip pan made of foil in front of coals. Attach spit and occasionally baste with marinade. Cook according to table below:

Oven Barbecuing: Turkey barbecuing doesn't take place only outdoors on the rotisserie. It also can be done in the oven. Better still, for oven barbecuing, any sized turkey may be used. Drain marinade from turkey. Truss wings akimbo style and tie legs or tuck under tail skin band. Place on a rack in a shallow pan and roast in 325 degrees F. oven, using the oven roasting chart.

Sweet, Sour Short Rib Barbecue

Sweet and sour beef short ribs are proof in the eating why Californians love beef and barbecue it almost all year 'round.

One of the tastiest beef cuts that can be cooked over the coals, these juicy, grilled short ribs are a delicious surprise for those who have never tried them this way.

The secret to tender beef shorts ribs is a simple treatment with instant meat tenderizer before marinating. Here we've used an unusually good sweet-sour papaya marinade to compliment the rich beef flavor. Because short ribs are so thick and meaty, allow plenty of time for a slow grilling. And if you're out of charcoal, the beef can also be baked very successfully in a moderate oven. Definitely special enough for guests, sweet and sour beef ribs are a great addition to your repetoire of barbecue specialities.

Top quality California beef offers a wide choice of cuts suitable for barbecuing. And you needn't live in the country, either, to enjoy charcoal flavored beef.

SWEET 'N' SOUR SHORT RIBS

4 pounds California beef short ribs
2 teaspoons unseasoned meat tenderizer
1-3 cup garlic wine vinegar
1 cup papaya nectar or pineapple juice
1-3 cup brown sugar (packed)
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 tablespoon catsup
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper

Have butcher trim off excess fat and cut short ribs into 2-inch squares. Sprinkle tenderizer evenly on beef and pierce all sides deeply with fork. Place in shallow pan and let stand 10 minutes. Meanwhile, combine vinegar, fruit juice, brown sugar, soy and catsup. Simmer 10 minutes. Pour over beef and marinate 1 hour or longer. Drain and reserve marinade. Sprinkle beef with salt and pepper. Grill slowly over coals, 1 to 1½ hours, until tender. Brush with remaining marinade during cooking. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

OVEN METHOD: Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 to 1½ hours until tender. Baste with marinade occasionally during baking.

Variations On Openface Sandwiches

With summer just around the corner and the heat of the kitchen becomes less inviting, try these innovations for Norway sardine open - face sandwiches that are tasty and quick to prepare:

NORWEGIAN SEAFARER

Spread slice of bread with cream cheese. Top with sliced cucumber, drained Norway sardines arranged criss - cross, and top with a dressing made by blending together ¼ cup mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon lemon juice and ¼ teaspoon dill weed.

SARDINE "FANDANGO" SANDWICH

Norway sardines go Spanish for this open-face sandwich. Place lettuce leaves on lightly buttered slice of bread. Arrange drained Norway sardines on lettuce and top sardines with sliced stuffed olives. Spoon dressing, made by combining ¼ cup mayonnaise and ⅛ teaspoon salad herbs (which have been softened in ¼ teaspoon tarragon vinegar), over all.

DEVILED SARDINE SANDWICH

Toast one side of bread. Blend together 1 tablespoon butter, few drops Tobasco sauce and ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Spread this over untoasted side of bread. Place drained sardines at outer edges of bread and, in between, place 2 tablespoons cottage cheese. Pop under broiler for few minutes, if desired. Sprinkle paprika over cottage cheese and serve.

Novel Barbecue Basting Techniques Concentrate On Molasses Glaze

Now that the barbecue season is here, you are probably looking for some fresh ways to flavor barbecued meats, poultry, and fish. With barbecuing now a national pastime, you may find that a simple new way to baste and sauce the food is just what you need to prevent barbecue boredom from setting in.

When preparing a barbecue a barbecue sauce, you'll want one that is as simple as possible, but that still has the fresh, unusual flavor of special seasonings not available in prepared sauces. You'll also want sauces that enhance the flavor of the meat or fish — without overpowering it — and that will complement the differnet flavors of beef, lamb, chicken, swordfish, etc.

Home economists for Brer Rabbit molasses have been considering these requirements, and have come up with some interesting barbecuing tricks. By brushing light molasses, straight from the bottle, onto meats and poultry, you can add luscious flavor and an appealing glaze which helps seal in the delicious meat juices. This extremely simple barbecue trick is convenient to know, since it can come in handy when you are under pressure.

Brushing light molasses on meats to be oven roasted or broiled will enable you to carry the flavor of outdoor cookery inside. The unusual savor of light molasses glaze adds a "charcoal cooked" flavor.

For variety you can add many different seasonings, to the molasses, depending on your mood and menu. Ideal for summer cooking,, the molasses glazes require no tedious precooking or preparation. These glazes are easy to apply with brush or spoon: the light molasses base makes them cling to the meat during cooking.

Molasses 'n' beans is a great accompaniment to barbecued meats — and the beans can be cooked in a pot on the grill, or prepared on the stove. A few canned beans — canned pork and beans are excellent, but try others as well — will give them a hearty flavor and color.

For sweet corn on the cob, the home economists recommend a special spread that makes sweet corn taste sweeter.

The following recipes make enough glaze for 4 to 6 servings.

Lemon Molasses Barbecue Sauce

¼ cup Brer Rabbit light molasses
2 tablespoons melted butter
¼ cup lemon juice

Combine and brush on food. Golden brown glaze, expecially good on chicken. Season food with salt and pepper after cooking.

Onion Molasses Barbecue Sauce

¼ cup Brer Rabbit light molasses
2 teaspoons Angostura bitters
1 teaspoon onion powder

Combine and brush on foods for an interesting treat with tangy aftertaste. Season foods with salt after cooking.

Spicy Molasses Barbecue Sauce

¼ cup Brer Rabbit light molasses
¼ cup catsup
1 tablespoon instant minced onions
¼ teaspoon Tabasco sauuce

Combine and apply. Hearty and spicy. Season foods with salt after cooking.

Japanese Barbecue Sauce

¼ cup Brer Rabbit light molasses
2 tablespoons Japanese-style soy sauce
¼ teaspoon garlic powder

Combine and apply. Tangy sauce with rich brown color. Season foods with pepper after cooking.

Molasses Sweet Corn

¼ cup Brer Rabbit light molasses
¼ cup butter or margarine

Combine ingredients in small saucepan. Heat, stirring constantly, until butter is melted and mixture is smooth.

Makes enough for 4 to 6 ears of corn.

Place under broiler for 5 minutes or until browned on top. 4 to 6 servings.

Brand New Revival For Leftovers

Left-overs just don't seem like left-overs when they are served in an entirely different way. Roast chicken, for example when its first day is over, reappears two days later as a cheese-y casserole. There's nothing "left-over" about this economical main dish. It seems brand new!

MENU
Tomato Rice Soup
Cheese-y Chicken Casserole
Buttered Snap Beans
Tossed Greens with Radishes and Onions Rings
French Dressing
Key Lime Pie
Coffee Milk

CHINESE-Y CHICKEN CASSEROLE

1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
⅓ cup milk
3 cups cooked noodles
1 cup diced cooked chicken
2 tablespoons diced pimiento
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons buttered bread crumbs

Blend soup and milk. Add noodles, chicken, pimiento, and parsley. Pour into 1½-quart casserole; top with crumbs. Bake at 350 deg. F. for 30 minutes or until hot and bubbling. 4 servings.

POINTING THE WAY — Sigrid Akkerman shows Pat Bresnahan of Pacifica and Ed Norris, owner of Ed Norris Volkswagen, her home city of Emden, West Germany, during the annual Volkswagen Youth Exchange Program farewell dinner in Burlingame. Sigrid, who arrived in Pacifica on June 24, and Pat, who left for Germany last week, have exchanged homes for six weeks as participants in VW's annual program. Ed Norris Volkswagen, 6918 Mission Street, in Daly City, is the local sponsor.

Prisoner Nearly Dies From Drugs

A San Carlos butcher awaiting transfer to state prison nearly succeeded in taking his own life in county jail Saturday night, the sheriff's office reported today.

Sgt. Richard E. Platt said James Vincent Kerns, 38, of 118 Kelton Avenue, was found unconscious and bleeding from the mouth in his bunk Sunday morning. He was rushed to County General Hospital where doctors, diagnosing an overdose of drugs, insisted on knowing what Kerns had taken.

Platt said the deputies interviewed other prisoners and concluded that Kerns had taken 65 capsules of a pain killer drug and 17 tranquilizer pills.

The other inmates said that Kerns, who was not on medication himself, had traded cigarettes for them and had managed to accumulate the large number over a period of time.

Doctors said his condition was "extremely critical" at first but he began to improve after a trachectomy was performed. His condition was listed as satisfactory today.

GUNS STOLEN

Two .22-caliber nine-shot revolvers were stolen about 8 p.m. Monday from the gun case at the Montgomery-Ward store in the Serramonte Shopping Center, police report. There were no suspects in the grand theft.

Paper Drive Scheduled In San Bruno

San Bruno residents have been asked to save their old newspapers for a city-wide newspaper drive scheduled for July 25.

A committee of four—resident Mrs. Donna Elliott, student Bob Cochran, Councilman Ted Long and Chamber of Commerce Manager Christopher (Kit) Menkin—is in the process of establishing depots as collection points.

Residents wishing to volunteer their garages for this purpose, or trucks for the paper pickup have been asked to contact any of the committee members, or the chamber of commerce.

Letters also will be sent to the youth groups in the city seeking their help and offering to divide any profit from sales of the old papers among these participating groups.

Should this experimental paper drive prove successful, it will become a regular function and later possibly expanded to include non-returnable cans and bottles.

Powerboat Aground

A stolen powerboat belonging to San Francisco Restaurateur Joseph N. Scoma was found run aground near the South San Francisco industrial area Thursday completely engulfed in flames.

South San Francisco firemen said the boat was a total loss, destroyed above deck. Scoma, who lives in Novato, said the craft was valued at $17,000.

Westlake Center Plans Giveaway

Thirty nine Westlake Shopping Center visitors will receive $2,500 in Shopping Center Merchandise Orders during the month of July, as the popular center undertakes its annual mid-summer clearance sale and merchandise certificate promotion.

To be eligible for the awards — four winners will win merchandise certificates in the amount of $250 each! Five Winners will win certificates worth $100 each, ten winners will win $50 merchandise orders each, and 20 winners will each win $25 orders—all a shopper must do is drop into any Westlake Center store and pick up a free drawing ticket. No purchase is necessary.

The shopper must then fill out the ticket stub and drop it into the barrel depository in front of the W. T. Grant store.

Tickets are now available. The drawing will be held Friday, July 31, at 9 p.m.

Free drawing rules prohibit visitors under the age of 18 years from winning. Winners must be 18 years or over. Also, no repeat winners will be allowed. That is, no one person will be allowed to win more than one prize.

Drawing tickets may be obtained daily until 8 p.m. the night of July 31.

Merchandise Orders will be redeemable — for merchandise only (no cash) — at any Westlake Shopping Center store, including those on Southgate Ave.

San Bruno Stuck With Motel Tax

San Bruno councilmen learned last week in a report from Acting City Manager Leo Van Dusen that the city is stuck — at least for another year — with paying the county a portion of the city's hotel-motel tax.

According to Van Dusen's report, cancellation requires 30 days notice in advance of July 1, which, incidentally, was Wednesday.

Although the councilmen took no official action because they were bogged down with union negotations, Councilman Ted Long said the city ought to put the county on notice that the city does intend to halt its share.

Mayor Neil Christal concurred and said, "Just because we can't cancel out, doesn't mean we can't reduce it."

All councilmen seemed to agree that the $3,300 going to the county could be used to better advantage for city promotion.

Student Wins Scholarship

A Pacifica student is one of 24 winners of a $500 awards in the California Labor Federation's 20th annual scholarship competition.

Andrew Dowsett, 17, 1451 Crespi Drive, Pacifica, of Terra Nova High, describes his interests as "extremely diverse."

A member of the Speech, Science, International Relations, and Chess Clubs during the past four years, he was also cofounder of the Terra Nova Student Union and is a member of the Pacifica Peace Coalition. Although Andrew is the winner of a number of awards in liberal arts and social science as well as natural science fields, he plans to major in math and science at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena. His brother, Stephen Dowsett, is a member of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists Local 1781 in San Bruno.

Readings At Christian Science Rites

The practical effects of a life consecrated to God show the true meaning of sacramental vows, according to the Lesson-Sermon on "Sacrament" to be read on Sunday in all Christian Science churches.

The Golden Text, establishing the theme of readings from the Bible and the Christian Science textbook, is from John: "The bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, Discover and Founder of Christian Science, the following passage refers to the teachings and practice of Christ Jesus:

"First in the list of Christian duties, he taught his followers the healing power of Truth and Love. He attached no importance to dead ceremonies. It is the living Christ, the practical Truth, which makes Jesus 'the resurrection and the life' to all who follow him in deed."

Services are held close by in Pacifica, San Francisco or South San Francisco at Churches of Christ, Scientist.

Legs Broken In Accident

A South San Francisco woman suffered two fractured legs when she was hit by a car on El Camino Realin San Bruno on Sunday.

The victim, 37-year-old Mona Armour of 216 Holly, was taken to Peninsula Hospital for treatment after being struck by a car driven by James Adey, 54 of 125 Conejo Drive, Millbrae.

San Bruno police said the pedestrian was 45 feet east of the curb lane when hit at 8:30 p.m.

The driver of the car said he was traveling in the fast lane when the woman stepped off the curb. He was unable to avoid hitting her, he told police.

THOMAS J. KOLLMANN has been named Account Executive for CF Air Freight it was announced by Fred Schott, District Manager of CF Air Freight in South San Francisco.

Council To Study 2 Plans

Half Moon Bay City Council will have a pair of development plans to consider at tonight's regular meeting, starting at 8 at city hall, one about ready to go and another not, yet.

Herb Frahm, architect for the proposed El Mar Beach housing project near Miramar, will be in to work out final details in the reactivation of that job, approved 1½ years ago by the city but never constructed,

An appeal is expected by Arbor Development Co. from a planning commission denial of townhouse-apartment - modular housing development east of the downtown section of the city (Spanishtown) and across Arroyo Leon Creek from it. The 21-unit-per-acre density was considered too high by the planners and there have been several letters of protest from citizens.

Wilbur Hunt, operator of Half Moon Bay Yellow Cab, is expected to protest use of minibus by the Ocean View Plaza retirement housing center on South Main Street, claiming this transportation for the elderly is damaging to his business.

There also will be the matter of seeking appointment of a new planning commissioner, to succeed Tulio Angelini, whose term expired June 30 and who didn't choose to accept another term.

Damien House Plans Meet In South SF

The second in a series of public meetings to describe and discuss the concept of a community drop-in center has been scheduled for Thursday, at the Martin School Multi-Purpose Room, Maple and School Streets, in South San Francisco.

A 25-minute film, showing some aspects of a drop-in center's operation, will be shown. The film was made at the very successful Damien House in San Mateo.

Interest in the concept of a community drop-in center has evolved as a part of a multi-agency effort to provide recourse for young citizens in need of help with problems encountered in today's culture. Many of the problems of young people in our society are greatly intensified by drug abuse. A drop-in center serves a community by providing a place for working out problems without recourse to drugs or even more desperate alternatives such as suicide or running away.

The types of medical, administrative, and financial services available to the community through a drop-in center will be included in the evening's discussion.

Colma Student Davis Advisor

A total of 1,334 freshmen and 720 parents are participating in the sixth annual Summer Advising and Registration Conference at the University of California, Davis.

Begun in 1965 by Registrar Elmer H. Wagner to acquaint incoming freshmen and their parents with UCD, the program now accommodates 17 groups of visitors and runs to July 24.

"During their two and one-half day stay, the students meet with faculty advisers and complete their testing, registration, and enrollment for fall quarter classes," says Harvey Trace, assistant registrar, who with Mrs. Yvonne Alexander, assistant dean of students, has joint responsibility for the program.

Among student advisers this year is Rayme Lichtenberg, assistant chairman, Colma.

Marijuana Confiscated

Daly City Police Patrolman Michael Nelson confiscated half a kilo of marijuana last night after making a routine traffic stop.

Lt. Thomas Culley explained that Nelson pulled over a car, at 8 p.m., at Skyline Drive and Westridge Avenue. In the car were Jeffrey Kratka, 25, San Francisco; Marlene Zendt, 20, Larkspur, and Phillip Bonter, 23, San Francisco.

Nelson made a routine check, Culley said, and learned San Francisco held an outstanding warrant on a marijuana charge.

The patrolman also found, Lt. Culley said, bags of marijuana in the pockets of each of the three persons, as well as in the car.
